ANOTHER MURDER IN THE COUNTY LIMERICS Last evening, at the early hour of seven o'clock, two armed men, whose faces were blackened to avoid recornition, suddenly entered the house of John Ryan, steward and bailiff to Sir Mathew Parrington, Bart. within querter of a mile of the village of Murror, whitin queries of a since of a Police station, and in the neighbourhood of a Police station. They cried out, when inside the door, "heads; down." and swore they would have the life; They cried out, ween inside the door, and down," and swore they would have the life of Ryan, at whom they immediately presented. He caught hold of a friend of the name of Tucker, who happened to be in the house, and placed him between the two armed men and himself. A short struggle ensued, and when they had forcibly disengaged Tucket from Ryan, the latter grasped a chair to defend himself, and the faithful wife throwing herself between to save her husband's life, from the deadly weapon, the contents of a gun-shot close under her left breat, which passed out through her back, and killed the poor woman on the spot! The distracted husband then rushed to the adjoining room where a gun was kept for his protection, and when he came out found the murderers had disappeared, and the only object before him was the bleeding corpse of his unfortunate partner. The horrors of this atrocity are aggravated by the circumstance of three young children being left motherless, the youngest not four months born, and which Mrs. Ryan had only put from her breast when rushing to save her husband. Ryan's house, at Murroe wood, was burnt down by incendiaries last year, and he had also received threatening notices. An inquest was held murder returned against person or persons unknown.
