

vice guardians, a rate averaging 3s 3d in the pound is collected at the rate of £500 per week, without the aid of Police or attorney, at a cost of 1s in the pound, collector's fees.

The Cork union have lost a considerable sum by giving employ to the inmates, the work so carelessly executed gave no encouragement to purchasers. The guardians are about to purchase a mill to be worked by manual labour of the paupers.

THIRD DEATH FROM HUNGER IN THE PARISH OF BALLINGARRY.

On Thursday, the 16th inst., John Cox, Esq., Coroner, held an inquest at Ballygrennan Commons, in the parish of Ballingarry, on the body of Bartholomew Roche. The jury, with the full concurrence, and, indeed, by direction of the coroner, returned their unanimous verdict—"Died of hunger." The widow of deceased, who lay on straw, within a foot of the body of her husband (after having been within an hour disposed for death by Rev. William O'Donnell, the Roman Catholic curate of the parish), in feeble and dying accents, and in the Irish language, deposed as follows: Margaret Roche sworn—Deposed that her family consisted of her deceased husband, herself, and two children, of the age of 12 and 15 years; that she has an elder son married, Edmond Roche, aged about 22; that this young man works among the farmers at thrashing and other farm labour, receiving in lieu of his labour his food merely—wages being out of the question; that, for the last fortnight or three weeks, her son worked for Patrick Collins, of Ballyclare, farmer; that, on Sunday, the 29th of October, he procured for the family at home, viz.—his father, mother, brother, and sister, one stone of Indian meal which lasted them for about two days; that, from that time to the death of her husband, the family lived on turnips, given by the charity of Patrick Collins, and on some cabbage leaves from their own garden; (the turnips given by Collins—the last he had—were of the white unsubstantial kind, but she said that Mr. Crimmen, of Killatal, gave them a meal of two of good Swedish turnips) on the very day on which her husband died her son, Edmond, procured a shilling, viz.—a shilling of an old debt, and sixpence, the gift of Patk. Collins; this shilling he converted at once into Indian meal (about 10lbs.); she hastened to make stirabout, but before it could be prepared her husband had breathed his last! This horrid tale was corroborated by other witnesses, indeed, was well-known to most of the jury, who returned a verdict accordingly.

There is a very poor supply of Indian meal in Dingle at present. Nearly 1,200 persons are receiving in-door relief in the temporary workhouses of the union. Out-door relief is being issued to 3,000.

years. Letitia, relict of county Tyrone.

At Wexford, Benjamin

At Abbeyleix, Eliza

At his residence in

year of his age, one of

At Sandymount, Ge

of Middle Abbey stree

At Upper Baggot st

Arthur Bentley, E. J. C.

At Larkfield, near

George Giles, Esq. an

of Mathore House, W

At Rostrevor, Hen

At Lisburn, John S

ber of the Society of

Wm. Murland, Esq

county Antrim.

In the 88th year of

House, Londonderry

At De Vesci Terra

White, Esq. Old Park

At Molesworth stre

year of her age.

Suddenly, at Adela

ston.

Mrs Anne Conry,

Ormond quay.

At Exeter, Mary A

of Merrion square, a

Esq. of Bansagh Cas

Of fever, at Ports

77th Regiment, in hi

Darley, Royal Navy.

At Liverpool, thro

Richard Howard, wh

Zoological Gardens

At Exmouth, Lady

Solwey Holroyd, Ju

Frederick Walpole

Bengal.

At Southsea, Com

At Barcaldine, Ar

Barcaldine and Fox

At Brompton, An

Place and Maida Va

At Bath, John Hu

At Shacklewell, M

of England.

At his residence,

tary to the Reform

At Barbadoes, Jo

At St. Martin, Ca

half pay, of the 85th

Captain of Militia.

At Dunham, Miss

he was Rector, the

oldest clergyman o

Mr. Cotton receive

University course a

Canada in 1804.

At Kingston, Fr

Emigrant Hospital

The Rev. Mr. Ho

On Monday last,

after a few hours i

Roger Keating She

demise of this an

parents into the de

to the family vault