 his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, at the Viceregal submitted to him, expressed his anxious solieitude, as to the condition of the union; and promised to bring the matter under the attention of Government.

Mr. Mathew Collins, of this City, whose death we recorded on Saturday, was borne in Ballygarry, in this county, (the 8d son of a respectable farmer in that parish, named Mathew Collins,) in the month of December, 1771. He commenced his career of public celebrity in the year 1807, and in the year 1812 he first established a school in this city. His profound skill in mathematics soon gained for him the title of Munster Star. He was for many years contributor to the Irish and English almanacs, and he prepared some of the best scientific scholars in Trinity College.

An article of Ladies dress was left in the room at

On Tuesday two men armed and blackened, effected an entrance into the house of Catherine Darmody, tobacco, soap, and candles, they carried off.

Thursday night, thirty-nine fat sheep were stolen off the lands of the Rev. Edward Nash, at Ballycarthy near Tralee, and though every exertion has been made to recover them, not one of the flock has yet been found.

Wednesday, six armed men entered the dwelling of John Darmody, near Cullen, and commenced assaulting the inmates in a brutal manner with guns. They searched the house, and even the pockets of Darmody, but got no money. They then decamped, taking several articles of wearing apparel, &c., with them.

Thursday, four men robbed Philip Backly, of Emly,
