

of everything the country could afford as provisions, not only exonerate their lordships blame, but is a convincing proof that it is the best desire that every individual who has volunteered to serve in this hazardous enterprise should be as happy as human ingenuity can devise, even all times the comfort of a full belly and a good sleep.

Regarding you the above remarks, I have no objection in view but that of imparting some information on a subject which to you cannot fail to be interesting.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

I am at liberty to make what use of this letter you please. I have enclosed you our scale of victuals for 4 days.

THE PROVISIONS OF THE ARCTIC SHIPS.
The Editor of the United Service Gazette.
Permit me to inform you that the private letters of Capt. Austin's expedition, which were published in the columns of the United Service Gazette on Saturday, giving such a cheering account of the provisions, &c., have been read with great interest by the friends of those who are now away in the Arctic search of Franklin. Great credit is due to the man who supplied such excellent provisions, and it is really fair that his name should be made known.

H. Gamble, of Cork, was the party; and a spirited merchant is due the credit of having supplied apples, which, in Jack's opinion, formed a delicious substitute for sour cranberries. It is also to know that the whole of the preserved provisions supplied to the expedition sent by the way of the Cape of Good Hope, are from the same tested source, and were put up at Mr. Gamble's manufactory in Cork, one who knows the value and importance of provisions in the Arctic regions, and

Yours, &c.,
SATISFACTION.

Cork, Sept. 4th.

Following appeared in part of last impression:
Officers of the 92d Highlanders gave a splendid dinner at the Phoenix-park on Thursday.
General W. Napier, in reference to the death of King, declares that his brother, Sir Charles Napier, never used the words, "the 14th Dragoans were anywhere, if properly led."
Mackey, 92d Highlanders, was drowned at sea on Tuesday.
Johnson, late 26th, broke his arm yesterday morning in the Phoenix-park.
Eight four transport convicts, named Macnamara, Collins, and Sullivan, made an attempt to break out of a ward of the County Gaol. The Governor, Mr. Woodburn, introduced the police, and put the mutinous fellows into strict custody. This morning they were brought before Henry Maunsell and John Gabbett, Esqrs. of the board of superintendence, who ordered them to be kept in close solitary confinement for a week, and prohibited seeing their friends. The board also have written to Dublin requesting the removal of the above offenders from the gaol, and to sentence.

Charles R. Colville, Esq., M.P. to the Hon. Catherine Russell, eldest daughter of the late Capt. John Russell, R.N.

DEATHS.

This morning, at his father's residence, Sexton-street, Mr. Redmond Nash, Solicitor.
On Saturday, at St. John's Fever Hospital, after protracted illness, which she bore with Christian fortitude, Rachel, wife of Mr. Michael Brew, Registrar of that institution. She has left eight children to deplore the loss of an affectionate parent.
At his residence, Church Hill, on the 13th inst. in the 81st year of his age, the Rev. Mountfort Longfield, Vicar of Desertserges, diocese of Cork, and Rector of the Union of Templemore and Kilerohane, in the diocese of Ardfert.
Alicia Teresa, daughter of the late Thomas Power, Esq. of Butlerstown, co. Waterford.
At Kiltrush, on the 10th inst. after a lingering illness, Mr. Godfrey Taylor, aged 76 years. He filled the situation of parish clerk for nearly forty years, and served in the County Limerick Militia, and was discharged on a pension, after a service of over twenty-one years. He was one of the principal founders of Lodge 107 (held a few years ago in Kiltrush), over which he presided for two years in succession (on its formation.) He was held in high estimation by his brethren of the lodge, by whom he was presented, on his retirement from the chair, with a silver Past Master's mark of distinction, having an inscription highly creditable to his masonic worth. He was conveyed to his last resting-place by his fellow-townsmen, by whom he was regretted; and he was placed in his vault by his six sons, who will not soon forget a good parent.
At Woodville Terrace, Mary Towgood, widow of Lieut.-Col. Baker, H.E.I.C.S. late of Fort William, county Cork, in her 71st year.
