In the interview of the Galway deputation with the Barl Derby, to present a memorial for a grant of £85,000 public money; to erect a pier and breakwater, with a view to Galway becoming a Packet station, Lord Derby said that these works were to be undertaken for the purpose of confering benefit on the town of Galway, and therefore he would ask of the Rev. Mr. Daly what proportion of the sum required the Linhabitants would be prepared to pay? To this pertinent and reasonable quere (the rev. gentleman could not say that Galway would subscribe a pound for its own improvement! Lord Derby then said that in dealing with this subject it was impossible to separate from the erection of works for the improvement of the harbour of Galway the important question as to the eligibility of that port at some, future time as a packetistation. Two ports in Ireland, that of Galway and the Shannon, were prominently brought forward, but their capabilities were not investigated on the spot. Now what he proposed to do on the part of the government was to give instructions to the Admiralty to direct three maval officers of position and experience to visit the two ports—Galway and Limerick—and inquire into the expabilities of each for a future Transatlantin packet station. He would then compare the report of these officers with the evidence addeced before the late commission, and therefore the deputation would see that he could not at present pledge the government to accede to their request for the grant to erect a pier and breakwater. Mr. Daly expressed a hope that the promised ainvestigation would soon take place. Lord Derby—Certainly—in the course of the summer.

As a matter of special interest to Ireland we have to notice the formation of a company called the Peninsular Colonization Company, whose advertisement appears in our columns. The object is to colonize a large trace of country in Andalusia, on both banks of the Guadalquiver, between Serille and Cordova. The land is described as being rich, the climate remarkably salubrious, exemption from taxation is guaranteed by the Spanisi Government for twenty years, power to appoint their own municipal authorities is given to che colonists, and other advantages which deserve peculiarly the consideration of the Roman Catholic population, determined to improve their present condition out of Ireland.

TIPPERARY RACES.

This steeple chase meeting commenced on Monday, when the railway trains from Limerick, Cork, and Clonmel, conveyed hundreds to the race course, situate midway between the town of Tipperary and the Limerick junction. The weather was most inclement, the rain having fallen in torronts, with an exceedingly high wind. The assemblage of the peasantry was numerous, and the very few private equipages in the course, if they may deserve the name, indicated the fallen state not only of the far famed Tipperary, but of Ireland generally.
