

whom he has continued ever since.
I have no doubt but that there will be several Candidates for the situation, some of whom may have strong claims on you, but I cannot help stating, that as far as experience—character—acquirements as a Scholar, and general fitness, there cannot be any person more eligible than Mr. Hogg.

I am, Dear Singer,
Yours, very sincerely,
THOMAS P. HUDDART.

The Rev. J. H. Singer, D.D. &c.—
Trinity College.

Extract from a letter written by the late Bishop of Killaloe, afterwards Bishop of Cashel:—

London, May 1, 1837.

No person can estimate more highly than I do your distinguished qualifications.

Yours faithfully,
STEPHEN KILLALOE.

The Rev. John Hogg, Diocesan school,
Limerick.

The report of the Commissioners of Education, addressed to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, in 1838, is thus concluded:—

We have a confident hope that, under the direction of the eminent Classical Scholar appointed by your Excellency to the Mastership, the school of Limerick will be eminently useful and efficient.

R. DUBLIN.
NATHANIEL MEATH.
CHARLES KILDARE.
FRANCIS SADLEIR, Provost.
C. R. ELRINGTON.
JOHN RADCLIFFE.
ROBERT SHAW.

WILLIAM COTTER KYLE, LL.D. M.R.I.A. Secretary.

The following letter is from the Vice-President of Queen's College, Cork:—

Queen's College, Cork, June 13, 1854.

My Dear Sir,—I cannot doubt that the two Limerick papers which I have lately received, have come from my Old Tutor, of whose faithful and enlightened assistance in my early studies, I retain a grateful recollection, tho' the intercourse between us has so long ceased.

Should any circumstance bring you into this neighbourhood, I shall be most happy to renew our acquaintance.

And meanwhile remain, Dear Sir,
Faithfully yours,
JOHN RYALL.

Rev. John Hogg, Diocesan school,
Limerick.

The following letter is from the Very Rev. the Dean of Limerick:—

Deanery House, June 2, 1854.

My Dear Sir,—I have read with extreme pleasure, the copies which you sent me of the letters of Mr. Mooney and your late pupil. It must indeed, be gratifying to you to find, that your conscientious, judicious, and tender management of that Boy has produced such fair fruits in him, and been so justly appreciated by his guardian.

It is, however, not more than I should expect to result in any instance, from care of pupils so parental and instructive, so able as yours.

Ever, my Dear Sir,
Most truly yours,
A. L. KIRWAN.

The Rev. John Hogg, Diocesan school,
Limerick.

I have great pleasure in bearing my testimony in your favor; and authorize you to make use of my name whenever it may serve you. From the multitude and respectability of your Credentials it is unnecessary for me to speak on the subject; I must however, say, that I know no person on whose zealous and faithful discharge of any trust reposed in him, I would more fully depend.

Yours sincerely,
CHARLES HARE, F.T.C.D.

Rev. John Hogg
