ACCIDENT ON THE QUAYS.—A short time since, complaint was made to the Magistrates at Petty Sessions of the danger and inconvenience of piling large heaps of timber on the quays—a nuisance which should not be tolerated, owing to the obstruction and impediment to the public passages caused by so doing. The dangerous nature of this practice was painfully illustrated on Sunday evening, by a sad and fatal accident, which caused the death of an interesting little girl, aged seven years, named Susan Haugh, step-daughter of Mr. Nolan, flour-dealer, William-street. It appears that the deceased, with a number of her juvenile companions, were playing around some piles of deals, belonging to Mr. F. Spaight, which were heaped upon Howly's-quay, when one at the end gave way, and about a dozen heavy planks fell upon the deceased, burying her beneath them, and seriously injuring another little girl named Anne Ievers, daughter of Mr. Ievers, cabinet-maker, of William-street. The head of the deceased child was made almost complete mummy of, and her leg was broken across the ankle. It is matter of surprise that, in a case of such public interest, no inquest was held on the body, which was interred yesterday.

John Davis, was sentenced in Dublin to six months' imprisonment, for offering a Crimea medal for sale. The Lord Lieutenant has ordered the discharge from Ennis gaol, of the prisoners committed at last assizes of the assault upon the police at Kilrush; in connection with the riots arising out of the attack upon the scripture readers; his Excellency being of opinion that the law had been amply vindicated by the imprisonment already suffered by the parties. Mr. Hartigan, of the Horse Repository, Cecil-street, is about to extend his professional duties as auctioneer, and, in connexion with his horse sales, intends to introduce auctions of horned cattle and sheep. His experience and long standing will tend to ensure him the patronage of the agricultural gentry and farming classes. Drunkenness is very much on the increase in Limerick, as may be perceived by a perusal of the records of the Police Courts each day. It is melancholy to find that the depravity which spends its leisure time in dissipation is not confined solely to the uneducated or the lowly, but its baneful influence has extended to some from whom, owing to the respectability of their position, better things should be expected. Amongst the recent arrivals at the Atlantic Hotel, Miltown Malbay, are the Right Rev. Dr. Vaughan, Bishop of Killaloe, Rev. Mr. Fitzgibbon, Limerick. Mr. and Mrs. Bouchier Wrey, Warecliff House, Dorsetshire, Rev. Dr. Herne, England, Mr. and Mrs. Rose, Limerick, the Hon. Misses O'Brien, Dromoland. At the Annual Meeting of the British Pomological Society, held at the Rooms, 20, Bedford Street, Covent Garden, London, the opinion of the judges on Underhill's "Sir Harry" Strawberry was—"That the fruit which that gentleman produced at the meeting, even at that late season, (August 4th,) were large and well coloured, the ripest being almost black, the flavour was most excellent, piquant, and highly aromatic, with much of the flavour of the Hautbois. There can not be a doubt, that when 'Sir Harry' is properly grown and well ripened, it is a very large, highly flavoured, early and late Strawberry, well worthy of being generally cultivated; and the specimen plant of

Extra Strong Wire OX Fence

Dear Sir, - The Wire Fence you erected for me appears most admirable and durable. I saw my 5-year old Ploughing Bullocks rubbing, and pushing with their Horns against it, to get into the Pleasure Ground, but they did not, in the slightest degree injure the Fence.

Your's truly,

Reaping Scythes.

THE Subscribers are preparing a large supply of their Improved Iron Handled Reaping Scythes for which early orders are requested, as, from great demand last year many were disappointed. The Scythes will cut down with neatness and facility all kinds of corn crops; and from its working nearer the ground than the sickle, the bulk of the crop is considerably increased; besides, the crop is so fit for stacking from the sheaves being less pressed together than by reaping in the ordinary way. Price, complete, 10s. each. Orders from unknown correspondents to be accompanied with payment. The Scythes can be packed in close compass for conveyance by rail or coach.
