ENGLAND VERSUS IRELAND—A very extraordinary speech was lately made in London by the Rev. Dr. Krummacher, the 'John Wesley' of a large portion of evangelical christians, on the Continent, in England, and America. "The voice of one crying in the wilderness, make straight a way in the wilderness," of reigning imbecility and "wizard astrology" and fraud. Dr. Krummacher, who is considered the most learned biblical scholar in Germany, said, that the late Crimean war was that plainly foretold in Ezekiel, and that a junction between France and Russia, these foretold, and not dreamt about in England, had taken place. He said great regret was felt in the religious world at the state of education in England—her murders—poisonings—witchcraft—"all nations have drunk of the wine of the great Babylon, the merchants are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies." "I sit a Queen," says England, "and shall see no sorrow;" but the truths of the 18th of Revelations were hanging overhead. The late war was a political blunder—Russia and France have joined before their time. The King of Prussia and his family, into whose circle the Princes Royal was about to be hurried, are the most exemplary and proverbially temperate family in Germany, he said, but it had served some wise purpose of Providence, that like the King of Naples, or the King of Oude, he should be lampooned in the low British gin shops, where Punch was written, and
