DEATHS.

On Friday last, after a tedious and distressing illness, which he bore with Christian resignation, Benjamin Finch White, in his 18th year, the beloved son of Finch White, Esq. of Fort-Henry, Killaloe. The demise of this young gentleman is a source of poignant affliction to his sorrowing parents and relatives, and is generally regretted by a very large circle of friends and acquaintances. His disposition was generous, guileless, kind and affectionate, his manners bland and engaging; he was gifted with a clear and discriminative judgment, which gave promise (had his life been spared), of being in mature years an ornament to society. His habits were strictly religious, and his principles of the highest order. When he was aware that death approached, his end was peaceful, and he placidly fell asleep, trusting in the merits of his crucified Redeemer. His remains were interred on Monday in the family vault at Kiltmastulla.
