

ides all these signs and symptoms of ed that the Peelites are looking up in the there was a considerable demand by all at species of pie-bald place-hunter. In remarked that the meeting of Parliament to the furthest date allowed by modern he 3rd of February, thus plainly indi- almerston rather dreads to encounter the session. Still, despite all these tokens and ons we think the old pilot will weather the hough one or two of the most gouty of his thrown overboard, we would venture to almerston will stick to his post, and that el he commands will be kept afloat by ook for another quarter-day at least.

sea. The expedition against Persia has launched. Great Britain has plunged in the Shah. We have gone forth on one Quixotic of adventures—to release a semi—the fair city of Herat—from her cap- where such city lies, and whether it be ll, or even assailed, are profound mysteries all European geographers and historians. whether there be such a place as Herat in ghanistan, and whether it be in the pos- Shah or the Dost, is now to us of small : we have, it appears, resolved to pick a the Shah, with or without reason, and so gone forth, and the threatened expedi- ersian Gulf has departed on its mis- nest. On or about the 10th of last month ay and forty sailing vessels and steamers, egate of 30,000 tonnage, carrying 5,000 proper complement of cavalry and artil. with the intention of moving up the Per- d occupying the island of Karrack, thence o attack and take possession of Bushire, owing up “their inevitable destiny,” the natural instincts and habits of the a race. Thus, despite the warnings of experience, we have embarked on another which may ere long swell into a great ary contest; and thus we have precipi- into a quarrel between the treacherous barous despots of Central Asia, which as disasters, but which cannot bring us or profit. A naval expedition to the Per- all very well for an intimidatory demon. a military expedition through the Bolan Passes is a different specie of adventure, cannot be contemplated without appre- to that must it come at last should the ecuted. Fine sport this for the Eastern they play for empires, and no matter Great Britain is safe to pay the principal ney and blood.

N STEAMERS—The recent loss of the a transatlantic steamer, from France to has caused some excitement at ‘Lloyds’ in d the opportunity has been improved by the interest of the Liverpool steamers. ll sorts of horrors in the French mail pack- to prevent them touching on the Irish

PROSPECT FOR THE GERMANS—Cape 23rd September reached town on Saturday appears that Kanaly's people are again nent, and the Prophet of the Galekas has hat their ancestors are on their way to two bodies—the first to be led on by Colonel Herbert, M.P., and Mr. Vincent Scully. M.P., (who bought some property near Williamstown) have just been returned as defaulting ratepayers in the arrear sheets of the last rate of the Tralee Union.

The quantities of butter still offering for sale in the Kerry markets is astonishing, considering the lateness of the season. Prices ranged this week from £3 to £3 9s. per firkin.

John Leahy, a pauper boy aged 17 years, has been taken from the Kilarney workhouse to teach a school in the district.

We hear that Henry O'Shea, Esq. has retired from the Council—the only candidate in his place is John Ellard.

Miss Gubbins, a native of Limerick, is giving Recitations at Leamington Spa, which are attended by all the Nobility and Gentry of that district.

An affray attended with fatal consequences took place last week between two men named Skehan and M'Mahon, (cousins), who were working on the lands of Marble-hill, near this city. The row originated in some trifling quarrel about tobacco, when in the heat of their anger Skehan struck M'Mahon on the head with a spade inflicting a severe compound fracture of the skull. The unfortunate man was removed to Barrington's hospital, where every attention was paid him. He remained completely insensible for nearly two days, when at length it was deemed advisable to perform an operation for the removal of the bone which was embedded in the skull, and the instant it was removed perfect consciousness returned, and he was able to relate every particular connected with the occurrence. However, the wound was of so serious a character that he sunk under its effects and died on Sunday morning. An inquest was held on Monday by the Coroner, when the following verdict was returned: “We find that John Skehan is guilty of manslaughter.”

On Sunday night, some daring burglars entered the premises of Mr. Riedy, hardware merchant and general dealer in the town of Tulla Co. Clare, broke open the desk and till, and robbed the place of over £20 in cash, and a large amount of valuable goods. One of the party has since been arrested.

Mr. Martin who was killed on the Kingstown railway on Monday, held formerly a station in a mercantile house in this city.

Mr. Richard O'Connell has given the following notice of motion at the Tralee dispensary committee:—

“That this committee is of opinion that the tickets issued by any member ought not be cancelled unless it be quite certain that the party in whose behalf the ticket has been issued has (if single) a fixed certain income exceeding £40 a year, or if married, and having a family, then a fixed certain income of £52 a year, as this committee thinks that all persons, whose entire incomes are under the respective amounts above specified, are proper objects of dispensary relief, as such incomes, at present prices, barely admit parties to procure the necessaries of subsistence independent of medical relief during illness.” “That this committee are of opinion that there are many persons who, though they may be able to purchase medicines, are not able to afford to pay for medical and surgical advice; that we, therefore, recommend the Poor Law Commissioners to allow members of dispensary committee to issue tickets in a new form, entitling such parties to the advice of the medical officers of such dispensary, either at the patient's home or at the dispensary, as circumstances may require, but not to issue to such patients any medicine whatever, a practice which was very prevalent under the old dispensary system.”

A MODERN “JACK SHEPHERD” morning last, a prisoner in the Enright, against whom, at the before the Magistrates, there or ten charges capable of being evidence, was sentenced to six each on two distinct charges. termed “a haudy man,” he was in the kitchen where the prisoner this occupation he was continuing but it would seem that he had idea of librating himself by might present themselves. On at half past five a.m., and was pare the breakfast. The warder to go as usual about his ordin out any more stringent superv occasion to go into Mr. Mo rig himself out in a pair of th and also to provide himself w drying clothes. With the aid water-spout in the outer yar the wall. He then re-affixed spout, and throwing it over cended safely opposite Fitt's off. No trace of him has since

At the City Police Court, th an incorrigible young vagrant months imprisonment at hard

At the City Police Court y for being drunk in the streets costs. Bridget Vaughan a drunk, and fighting in the stre hours. Fanny Cunningham v man under the following rathe The watchman said that the p at a late hour last night, and to you” “For what” asked th a blanket out of the house I it”! “Is pledged, and I'll watchman made further enqui story was perfectly correct.

this day, there being only one and the law requiring the pres deal summarily with a case of and Bridget Counihan, the for the latter for receiving blank Castle-barracks, were remand Patrick Bromwell, a young, b accomplished pickpocket with pocket handkerchief out of a evening in George's street.

The prisoner (swivelling) I so I didn't. I gave up that you'r always down on me, so what is his character? Const the first of the most accomp town; there are three or four no escaping them, especially

The prisoner was sentenced imprisonment at hard labour.

[The victim in this case was Moore, Governor of the City venile pick-pockets of the Ci peculiar “set,” whenever he of his castellated residence.]

Mary Roche was charged b ing 10% from an officer of the at hard labour.