

Mr. Morris, arrested a man calling himself as a deserter, on suspicion of being a deserter, admitted to Tipperary Bridewell for a week, by P. C. Howley, Esq., R.M. The man wrote to the several depot at Fermoy, an accurate description of the deserter. In return, he received answers from the deserter, from the 95th Foot at Fermoy, and from the 95th Foot at Tralee, each claiming him as their respective corps. When the man was brought up, he stated that he might as well die as be a deserter, and volunteered from the depot in February 1856, to the 96th Foot. He was then at Aldershot, in January or February, and then enlisted and received bounties for the 96th, 95th, 2nd batt. Royal Artillery, Royal Marines, 4th batt Rifle Brigade, 38th and 14th Foot.
