dent physician of that establishment, when they met a number of people conveying the inanimate bodies of the mother and her three children to the hospital. When they arrived there medical aid was at once rendered by Doctors Gelston and Bourke, who were unceasing in their exertions to restore consciousness, and were at length successful with two of the children and the mother, but the youngest child, of two years, succumbed, and the mother is not yet out of danger. The cause of this melancholy catastrophe originated by a leakage of gas from a pipe which ran from the atreet along the ceiling of the cellar, and thence into the shop overhead, an examination into all the circumstances connected with this matter has been ordered by the gas authorities, and a coroner's inquest will take place to morrow on the body of the deceased. of that locality into a state of excitement, which it is rather difficult to describe—a poor man named Timothy Connors, who is in the employment of the Corporation as one of the nightly watch, left his wife and three children, in perfect health on proceeding yesterday evening to the discharge of his nocturnal duties, but on returning home this morning a miserable spectacle awaited him. This poor fellow resided in a cellar, in this crowded part of the city, and on rapping at the door which be expected would at once be opened for him; there was no attention paid to his repeated demands for admission, at length his anxiety becoming expensive he called for analitance and the door was torped in, when he encountered a dense body of gas which completely filled the apartment, and on rushing to the bed there lay his wife and three children apparently lifeless. Head Constable Moody who happened to be on duty in the neighbourhood at the time, directed that they should be brought into the air and proceeded at once to Barrington's Hospital for medical aid, and was hastening back with Dr. Bourke, the resi-
