Inspector Thomas R. Barry has returned across to Wexford, and taken charge

(?) OF THE POOR.—The poor-law board making inquiries into a very singular case against the master of the Poole Union. It seems that this official has been making the guardians of hams, potatoes, cabbage, gooseberries, and other things, on the pretext that it was an old custom. The case has interest in the Neighbourhood, but the details are not known till the commissioners' report is considered by the poor-law board.—It is admitted that he acted on a "liberal sys-

NOVEL.—Some weeks ago, an old woman near Bansha sustained a compound fracture when near a threshing machine at which she was forthwith removed to the poor-law hospital in Tipperary. No consideration would be allowed herself to be dismembered, and she continued to be sinking gradually. Dr. Morrissey, who had the reputation of being a dangerous state. They flocked to her to see what she would wish to do with her. She replied that she had nothing but to be rather amazed some of the expectants. She recently explained the matter. She was worth forty pounds, nearly all of which was in small sums; she could neither read nor write, and she kept all her own accounts by the method.—The left side of the back of the bedstead to one account, the number of shillings marked by a series of small circular holes, the pence by single strokes. The right side of the bed and posts of the bed were also used for the same purpose, as was also the back of the door, &c. With the utmost minuteness she kept the list of her debtors, and on what day they were due. Contrary, however, to all anticipations, she is now recovering, and will doubtless be enabled to go home in a few days to be again in the midst of her old life at Bansha.—Tipperary Free
