DEATHS.

On Monday morning, at her residence, Thomas-street, in this city, Joanna, relict of James Hickie, Esq., iron merchant. The demise of this good lady, after a few days' illness, of bronchitis, is a source of deepest sorrow to her numerous relatives and friends, and an irreparable loss to the poor, to whom she was a liberal and unostentatious benefactress. Her remains will be interred at St. Laurence Cemetery on to-morrow morning, at 10 o'clock.

On Saturday, Nov. 1st, at Charleville House, Rathmines, the residence of her son-in-law, Dr. Gray, sincerely regretted by a circle of attached friends, Mrs. Farrington, aged 65, last surviving daughter of the late Doctor Richard Lane, of Lime- rick. Her end was peace. Her remains were this morning interred at Mount Jerome.

On the 3rd inst., at Durham-place, London, Ellen, the be- loved wife of Denis O'Connor, Esq., of Somerset House, and daughter of John Scott, Esq., of this city.

At Ballysorell, on the 31st Oct., Thomas Bennett, Esq., late of Eastwood, Templemore, aged 79 years, sincerely and deservedly regretted by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

Yesterday, in Dublin, the Rev. M. Champagne, of Pallas- kenry, a respected minister of the Established Church.

Mr. Daniel Ryan, for many years postmaster of Newport, county Tipperary—an old and respectable inhabitant of that village.

At Tralee, suddenly, Mr. Maurice Harrington, T.C.

At the Mall, Tralee, Catherine Mary, daughter of M. L. Lyons, Esq.

At Stephen's-green, Dublin, Letitia, sister of the late Chief Justice Doherty.
