

Washington of mediation, continuation of hostilities. Writers report that the Federal battle with the Mississippi forts, two days. One vessel was sunk damaged. The Confederate loss about 20 wounded. Buell, and Grant, were preparing General Pope's division had advanced and was in sight of the enemy's regiments, whose term had expired. The conscription act, laid down their safeguard had detained four regiments.

are supposed to have carried away $18,000,000 in specie. Officially reports that General Sherman strongly reinforced since the last advance had been checked by the ridges across the Shenandoah. General Jackson is said to be reinterred sixteen miles from Harrisburg. Herald thinks that the new Slave treaty with England, which grants a march, will be sure to lead to a collision, and rejoices at the prospect.

MAY (EVENING).—The arrival of the New Orleans has been confirmed. General demanded the surrender of Confederate General Lovell refused to return with all his forces to New Orleans. Accordingly the Federals had not shelled the city as was going on between the Federal and the civil authorities of the city. The Confederates still occupied the city. The Confederates evacuated the forts on Lake Pontchartrain. General Sherman approached New Orleans by way of the rear of the city. No news of his movements, but it is supposed at New Orleans. The Confederates it is supposed may take his forces to Corinth.

The Confederate fleet is reported to be under Wright on the Mississippi and several gunboats which were bombarding located north of Richmond between Sherman's divisions and the Confederates. Both have been largely reinforced in this rise in the Mississippi river. New gunboats are under water. Freshets, very disastrous in that part of the own unchanged. The cotton planters restricted the cultivation of cotton on each hand employed, and advise breadstuffs instead.

Press.—The Chicago Journal had another and another had his leg shot off at Fort Henry. A third escaped the tale.
