MR. ADAMS.

The Times city article says, it is believed that the relations between our Cabinet and the United States Legation will continue on a friendly footing—a result which, in a personal sense, will afford unmixed satisfaction, since the individual and historical claims of Mr. Adams to respect and esteem have never been disputed in any quarter. In case of the certificate or pass to Messrs. Howell and Zerman it is reported Mr. Adams is aware of having acted with undue haste, and that consequently he raises no pretension such as would necessitate any absolute protest from one government to the other on the subject.

THE POLISH QUESTION.

The second edition of the Morning Herald contains, on the authority of the Augsburg Gazette, the French note to Russia on the Polish question. The writer adds, that The Press says that in the event of the Russian reply not being satisfactory, France, England, and Austria, will recal their ambassadors from St. Petersburg.

The correspondent of the Herald thinks that if the note be authentic, the situation is extremely serious.

GREEK FINANCE AND THE CURRANTS DUTY.

The Times city article says it is reported the Greek government intend to re-impose the export duty on Currants as it has been found that no increase of price up to 6d. per lb. has a material effect in diminishing consumption. The Greek financiers estimate the annual yield of an export duty of 10s. per cwt. at £600,000.

LOSS OF THE ORPHEUS.

The court-martial for the trial pro forma of the officers and crew have found that no blame was attached to Commodore Burnett, C.B., or any of his officers and crew—that the conduct of every officer, seaman, and marine, on board, was deserving of the highest praise, and that the duty of Lieutenant Hill, and the officers and crew of H.M.S. late ship Orpheus was fully and honorably executed.

THE COURT.

The ceremony was performed in German. The child was named by the Queen, who held it at the font, Victoria Alberta Elizabeth Matilda Maria.

Johanna O'Brien and Anne Guerin, two stars in the shifting line, who, in the eccentricities of their movements arrived in this city on Saturday last, and commenced operations in the shop of a highly respectable grocer in William-street, by picking the pocket of a farmer's wife who was availing herself of the Chancellor's reduced budget on tea, by buying largely of that genial production of the "flowery land." The trick was however clumsily effected, and Anne Guerin was detected, and on being convicted was sentenced to 3 months imprisonment with hard labor, and Johanna O'Brien was placed under a rule of bail or a month's imprisonment as being a particeps criminis in this badly managed transaction, and also to make one light fingered practitioner the less during the Munster fair.

A stout young Englishman who gave his name as Rodolph Brotherhood, and said that he was a native of Suffolk, was charged by a respectable grocer with asking for a ticket of admission to the workhouse, and when refused on the ground that there was no power to accede to his requisition he threatened to break the windows and then the skull of the Irish—who refused him his request.

Alderman McDonnell said that he would take care neither the windows nor the skull of the respectable citizen who was thus threatened should be broken by this Suffolk gentleman, at least for a month, during which period he should be confined to jail and stone breaking.

Prisoner—That's just what I like. Mr. Phayer (to the governor) and governor you will have peculiar care to have particular attention paid to the mode in which that Gentlemen's dietary will be cooked whilst he is under your charge. If you do perhaps he would not like to visit your hotel a second time.

The case of John Sullivan who was charged with inflicting a dangerous wound with a stone on the forehead of Mr. Patrick Mullane, of Nelson-street, was postponed until Friday next, at the instance of Constable Tynan, and for the purpose of procuring evidence for the prosecution.

CITY POLICE COURT.—Wm. Phayer, Esq., presided in this Court this morning, and imposed a fine of 6s or a week's imprisonment upon a young man named Bourke, who called for a half pint of whiskey in a grocers' shop, and having drunk it was walking off neglecting to pay for it when Constable Mercer happening to pass by took this accommodating liberator into custody, and this morning reported to the justice that this system of "biking the grocer" was very much in fashion. His Worship said that "pay on delivery" should now be adopted, and not after consumption.

PROTESTANT ORPHAN SOCIETY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE. SIR,—I have seen in some recent numbers of the CHRONICLE two or three letters written, I am sorry to observe, not in that calm and christian spirit which every thing belonging to Christian charity should invoke, and which the writer seemed to forget, when attending to the intended very salutary change in the residence of the female orphans from John's-square to that large, airy, and commodious house in Pery-square, or Boherbuoy, (if you would call it so.) The house is one which was within the recollection of many of us, a first-rate and most fashionable residence of the late Masy Ryves, Esq., and last occupied by General Hamilton, when Commander of the troops in this district, and was for years the residence of his widow, the Hon. Mrs. Hamilton and her numerous family of young and lovely daughters but exclusive of all this, there is a constant current of fresh air, let the wind blow from what point it may, playing upon the building. Its proximity to the Protestant Hall, which may be reached in five minutes, is another point in its favor as also the convenience it would afford to visitors wishing to see the interesting objects of such a charity; few would hesitate in going there who would never dream of visiting such an abode of squalid misery as that in which they are now confined. I confess I am greatly surprised that there should be a second opinion as to the great salutary advantages the children must derive from such a change, their welfare and comfort should be, and no doubt, are of paramount importance in the estimation of all the Christian gentlemen on the Committee and of the subscribers to the charity. I cannot, as I ought not, conclude this simple and candid statement without commending the dear objects of this most Christian charity, its numerous and I hope increasing subscribers, and particularly its Committee, to the kind care and wise direction of our Heavenly Father.

AN ORIGINAL MEMBER OF THE COMMITTEE.

28th April, 1863.

Mr. Windham Brady, (son of Luke Brady, Esq., Brookville, Ennis, and grandson of Mrs. Windham Magrath Fitzgerald, 1, Tontine Buildings,) is gazetted to an Ensigny in the 17th Regt.

Colonel H. P. Goodenough, Commanding Royal Artillery in this district, arrived in this city yesterday morning, from Cork, and inspected B. Battery, 8th Brigade, under command of Captain Elgee, at the King's Island, when they proceeded in full marching order, and marched past in slow and quick time. Subsequently the Brigade went through field evolutions, to the entire satisfaction of Colonel Goodenough, who complimented the corps upon their effective discipline. To-day Colonel Goodenough left by steamer to inspect the forts on the Lower Shannon.

STAFF IN INDIA.—Colonel Lord Mark Kerr, C.B., of the 1st Battalion 18th Light Infantry, has been appointed brigadier, with effect from the 18th November last, to complete the establishment, vice Brigadier Christie, gone on leave to Europe. Colonel Adye, C.B., of the Royal Artillery, has been appointed Deputy Adjutant-General of Royal Artillery in Bengal, vice Lieutenant-Colonel Moire, who had resigned from ill health. Staff Surgeon Home, V.C., recently arrived from England, will, at the recommendation of the Inspector-General of H.M.'s Hospitals, take medical charge of the Chinsurah depot. Captain T. J. Holland, Acting Assistant Quartermaster-General at head-quarters, is transferred to the Belgian brigade, as Deputy Assistant-General; Major Burrows, Assistant-Quartermaster-General, from Belgian brigade to the Northern division of the army; and Captain Piers, Acting Deputy Assistant-Quartermaster-General, Northern division of the army, will proceed to Poona for general duty, on being relieved by Major Burrows.

SOCIETY OF ST. VINCENT DE PAUL.—The collections at the Roman Catholic chapels of this city on Sunday last in aid of the funds of this society, did not, we regret to learn, reach anticipation; but it is earnestly hoped that all who have not yet contributed will send in their donations.—See advertisement.

tribes of that extensive empire, but he made no allusion whatever to his position as a missionary. In the afternoon he, with his brother, Dr. Vernon Russell, accompanied the Rev. Mr. Gregg to the Ragged School, where, no doubt, he was highly pleased at the large number of women and children attending the adult as well as the classes for children. We understand the rev. gentlemen left this city for Dublin on Monday.

LIMERICK RAGGED SCHOOL.—It is hoped the Bazaar in aid of the Limerick Ragged Schools, announced to be held on Friday and Saturday next, in the Protestant Orphan Hall, will be numerously attended, and prove beneficial towards the object for which the proceeds are intended. Numbers of gentry will be in Limerick to attend the Great Munster Fair, and we trust contributions to the Ragged School will plentifully pour in. Bouquets from country friends sent in on the days of the Bazaar, would be most acceptable. The exertions of the committee deserve the highest eulogy, and all interested in maintaining the prosperity of the institution are earnestly solicited to co-operate.

Mrs. Gregg thankfully acknowledges further contributions for the Bazaar from Mrs. Filgate and the Misses Macartney, Lower Lodge, Balbriggan; the Misses Blackburne, Mrs. Henry Vereker, Mrs. C. Evans, the Misses Shaw, Mrs. and Miss Watson and Miss Knott, Miss Hunt, Mrs. R. Fitzgerald, the Misses Jacob, Miss Johnstone, Mrs. Grubb, Mrs. Power, Miss Barclay, Miss Radcliffe, Mrs. Menzies, Miss A. Westropp, the Misses Lowe, Miss Sibthorpe, Miss L. Hewson, Mrs. Maxwell, Mrs. Eager.

DEATH OF THE VERY REV. JAMES O'BRIEN, P.P., AND V.G.

The grave has just closed over a zealous and pious Roman Catholic priest whose obituary we could have wished to be spared the task of penning, and in whose premature demise a combination of circumstances conspired to lend additional horror to the grim spectre of death. Young, active, and smiling—with a pleasing retrospect to look back upon, and a brighter future to anticipate, the Rev. James O'Brien might well have expected to be spared for a good old age, and a useful and profitable career. The deceased was a native of the city of Limerick, and was born in the year 1823. From his earliest youth he had manifested a desire to consecrate himself to God in the priesthood; and accordingly entered the College of Maynooth in the year 1846. During his stay in that well-known retreat he was distinguished amongst his companions for a strict attention to his studies, and collegiate duties, while his gentle disposition and open frankness of mind endeared him to a large circle of admirers now scattered throughout the several dioceses of Ireland. Having been admitted to the order of priesthood in 1852, he entered on the duties of the mission in his native city, where, during the lapse of a career brief in years but ripe in acts of Christian charity and benevolence he continued daily to gain fresh proofs of affection from his fellow-citizens—fresh instances of respect from his brother priests, and fresh marks of confidence from his ecclesiastical superiors. With every class of the laity he was equally loved and venerated—with the rich he was free and unassuming—with the labourer kind and familiar—with all he was condescending, humane, and obliging. But it was with the needy, the helpless, and afflicted he was particularly fond of mingling. For them he toiled—to them in his discourses he specially loved to address himself, for in them he recognised the victims of God's inscrutable judgments and the choicest objects of the Divine placency. "Whoever"—he lisped with the chill pallor of death gathering fast upon his brow, and with a mingled smile of sorrow and resignation that those who were present shall never forget—"whoever loves the poor loves Jesus." Faithful to the spirit of the Christian priest (who, like the Apostle of the Gentiles, should "make himself all to all"), he never stopped to enquire upon whom he lavished kindly services. From the door of his heart no suppliant was ever known to be rejected. In the mendicant's cabin—at the public meeting—and at the banquet of merriment he was a like the object of general regard, whether he opposed or acquiesced in the opinions of others, (and he ever did either with an honest consistency that was amongst the most endearing of his many good qualities) he always kept aloof from coarseness, and was seldom if ever, known willingly to give offence. With the humility of the priest he combined in an eminent degree the good naturedness of the philanthropist, and the urbanity of the gentleman, nor is it to be thought that we are employing a mere hackneyed form of words when we say that although he made many friends, he never lost one of them. Such is but a sorry portrait of him who is gone for ever from amongst us. On the 16th instant he was seized with an attack of bilious fever, which subsequently assumed the form of typhus, and soon all hope of recovery seemed vain. Gradually the grasp of death fastened more and more closely upon its victim till the 26th instant, when he went to enjoy the reward of his edifying career. His death was in keeping with his life—peaceful, happy, resigned. Never shall be forgotten the sincere piety with which, as life was ebbing fast away, he exhorted all around him to the practice of virtue. If anything could enhance the esteem and veneration in which he was held, it would be the sight of the lengthened cortege which attended his remains on this day to the grave. The citizens of Limerick, of every class and profession seemed to vie with one another in marking their respect for the deceased, besides vast numbers of the clergy, both secular and regular, both local and external. The children of the schools of the Presentation, Sisters of Mercy, and Christian Brothers' Schools walked in solemn procession to the grave yard. To these were added the members of the St. Michael's Temperance Society, of which the deceased had long been the respected President. The several Guilds of the Young Men's Society; the gentlemen comprising the Conferences of St. Vincent de Paul, together with the members of the Corporation robed in mourning costume. Conspicuous amongst the procession was the Most Rev. Dr. Butler, attired in full Pontificals, and preceded by 53 of the members of the priesthood, while the Most Rev. Dr. Ryan, himself, tottering on the limbs of age and infirmity, proceeded in his carriage, accompanied by the Very Rev. J. Hickey, P.P., Rathkeale, to pay the tribute of his esteem to the memory of the deceased. All hearts were rent with sorrow, all the homes of Limerick, whatever shade of religious belief their inmates professed, were rendered sad and gloomy. Never was witnessed a more universal outburst of sympathy—of sincere sorrow and regret. It was a City undulating in the tears of its people, and glistening in the sparkling beams of as bright and glorious a sun as ever dazzled the old walls of our historic city. Thus terminate the last tribute of popular love and veneration for this good and worthy priest. Seldom have the people of Limerick attended to their last resting place the remains of one who was a brighter ornament to the place of his birth, or a fitter model for his youthful fellow priests to copy after.
