

their spirit licenses recommended and signed by the magistrates. After disposing of some other trifling business, the court adjourned for a fortnight.

CAUTION.—At the Tipperary Petty Sessions the presiding magistrates were Richard M. S. Mansergh, chairman; John Massy, and C. J. De Gernon, R.M., Esqrs. A man named John Connors, was brought up, charged, at the suit of the Waterford and Limerick Railway Company, with having travelled on that line on the previous evening without a ticket, with intent to defraud the company. At Tipperary it would seem that he got out of the carriage at the off side of the station, and being noticed by two porters who were standing near the goods store, they took him in charge and on being brought before the station-master he denied that he got out of the carriage, and he was sent to the bridewell. On his way to the prison he was, at his own request, allowed to return, to ask the station-master to take the fair from Cahir, which was refused, and he was then conveyed to the bridewell. The bench fined him £1 and costs, and not being able to pay this he was sent to jail for a month. Johanna Barron summoned Margaret Brien, for overholding a quantity of flannel, her property. The defendant did not appear, and the complainant having refused to take the oath, the case was dismissed.

At Bruff petty sessions, held on Wednesday last, the presiding magistrates were:—William Bevan (chairman), and D. B. Franks, R.M., Esqrs. The cases for hearing were of the usual ordinary character, small debts, and summonses for road nuisances at the prosecution of the constabulary. After signing many publicans' certificates, the court was adjourned for a fortnight.

At the Ballingarry Petty Sessions on Saturday, the presiding magistrates were—Edward Lloyd, Esq., (chairman) Captain Bodkin, R.M., Captain Wilkinson, Dr. Atkinson, and Charles Conyers, Esq. There were two trespass cases, and the complaints being compelled to admit the insufficiency of the fences the bench refused granting the sums sued for in both and ordered that a man be appointed in each case to see the boundaries put in repair. The police had several persons summoned for breaches of the road act, dogs without log or muzzle, cars unmarked, &c., in each of which fines varying from 1d to 2s 6d were imposed. After signing two publicans certificates for renewal of licence the court adjourned to the 24th inst.

CONSTABULARY.—We are glad to announce the promotion of Captain Ion Studdert, Sub-Inspector of the Rametton district, in the County of Donegal, to the "good service pay" list of his service. Captain Studdert is son of the late Ion Studdert, D.L. and J.P., of Elmhill, in this county, and has been most successful in the detection and prevention of crime, and in suppressing illicit distillation within his district, where he is much esteemed and regarded by the gentry and better classes.

There was great rejoicing and bonfires for miles round the counties of Limerick and Clare on Thursday night last to welcome the return of Dr. Bentley and his amiable bride (daughter of Joseph W. Seward, Esq., Dromaan House, county of Galway,) to their residence, Shannon View, after the bridal tour. It was entirely owing to their arriving some two hours sooner than they were expected that they were allowed to arrive in their carriage drawn by horses, as arrangements were made by the surrounding tenantry that he and his bride should be hauled home in the true "ould Irish" fashion. Dancing and the other festivities were kept up to a late hour, and on leaving they gave the happy pair three enthusiastic cheers.

On the morning of the 8th instant the body of a man named John Fitzgerald, a painter, in the town of Bruff, was found in the sewer, immediately opposite his own door, speechless and senseless. He did not live many hours after. An inquest was held on the 10th by William C. Murphy, Esq., coroner, when it appeared from evidence that the man was intoxicated the night previous. Dr. Bennett, of Bruff, made a post mortem examination, and stated that he believed death was caused by drink and exposure to the cold of the night, thereby causing collapse. Notwithstanding, the jury, owing to some small wounds visible on parts of the body, as if inflicted by some sharp instrument, returned a verdict "death from unknown causes."

publicly discover their actual monetary prospects, the further falling off of £201,000 in the bullion held by the banks, which had occurred simultaneously, with a very heavy decline in the treasury balance had, at length, excited some attention; and daily fluctuations of 3 or 4 per cent in the gold market indicated a feverish state which may, at any moment, assume the feature of utter panic. Just before the departure of the present mail rumours had again become current of an intention on part of Government to prohibit the exportation of specie. The advance of 3 per cent in prem. on gold, reported on this occasion, is more than ordinarily significant since the New-York Court of Appeal had just declared the greenbacks to be legal currency—a result which was calculated, temporarily, to give an impulse to the value of these notes.

Bedford Row, for the work of the Home Missions for the past year, and to make a collection in aid of the funds of the society. The weather all day and during the early part of the evening was exceedingly inclement, and consequently the meeting was not as well attended as it otherwise would have been—on the motion of the Rev. Mr. Kerr, seconded by the Rev. Mr. Willis and unannouncedly carried, the chair was taken by Thomas Revington, Esq., who briefly addressed the meeting, taking a short review of the operations of the society for the past year, which, he said, were most satisfactory, and concluded by culling on the friends of the society, and of the diffusion of Gospel truth throughout not only Ireland but throughout the world, to contribute liberally and in a missionary spirit towards the funds of the society.

The Rev. Mr. Greer moved the first resolution, and in doing so observed that the position which he had been called on to fill was not that in which he would choose to stand if the selection lay with himself; but being called on to discharge a duty, he was bound to obey, and he did so cheerfully, because it would be more manly not to discharge your duty at all than to do it grudgingly or ungracefully. The rev. gentleman then proceeded to take a review of the signs of the times, which very few people understood, and the many had not time to consider. In the West there were "wars and rumours of wars"—in the East there was war—in China and in another nation in the neighbourhood of China there was rumour of war—on the Continent, Poland was upheaving and arising in her majesty against the inhuman yoke of semi-Barbarianism, and with outstretched arms was calling on Christianity and civilisation to rescue her from the hoof of the fell tyranny which was crushing her into the dust; but, oh! America! America!! exclaimed the rev. gentleman, you present the most dreadful picture of human misery that ever was sketched by the hand of man—such destruction of property—such sacrifice of human life—fields saturated with the blood of your people, and shed by the hands of kindred men. Oh! America!! it is enough to look upon you to cause tears of blood to flow in commiseration for your misery; but America had been guilty of forgetfulness—boasting of her own liberty; she had been guilty of the gross, the base, the inhuman crime of rivetting the fetters of slavery on the limbs of man, and for that crime you have been punished and steeped to the eyes in your own blood (applause). The rev. speaker then took a view of the labours of the society, which were progressing he said with success. He then spoke of the state of Ireland, past and present. He then alluded to the "spirit of controversy" which was just now abroad, and condemned it, as it aroused the prejudices of the ignorant and excited the rancour of the enlightened; men should be converted by kindness and by the mild persuasion, and not by bad names and foul reproaches (applause.) The rev. gentleman concluded a very eloquent and truly christian address by calling on the meeting to aid the missionary work of the society, and then resumed his seat with much applause.

The Rev Mr Jackson seconded the resolution, which passed unanimously.

The Rev Mr Willis proposed the second resolution, which, on being seconded by the Rev Mr Kerr, passed unanimously.

The Rev Mr White (deputation), then delivered an eloquent and very able address, giving the statistics of the work of the mission during the past year. He also condemned the system of controversy now pursued; for if he wished to convert a man to his opinions, he would use Christian persuasion instead of a bludgeon or a blackthorn stick, or foul names. Indeed he would much rather use the former than the latter, for these were not "apostolic weapons" (applause).

A collection was then made, thanks were given to Mr Revington, a hymn was then sung, the blessing given, and the meeting separated.

On Wednesday night an out-house in the vicinity of Tralee was broken into and a cow taken from it. On Thursday night 16 sheep were stolen from a butcher, which were grazing near the town; and on the same night the tongue was cut out of an ass, the property of a Protestant farmer named Neill, at Farmer's Bride.

Sub-Constable M'Givney, a member of the constabulary force stationed in the village of Leitrim, committed suicide on Saturday by throwing himself into the canal immediately adjoining the barracks, where he was found drowned. It appears the unfortunate man was on duty at the fair of Drumshambo, a few miles distant, on the 6th inst., where he became slightly intoxicated, and on learning he was reported for that offence, he committed the rash act.
