LIMERICK PHILOGNOSTIC SOCIETY.—(45, George-street).—Bible Class on Monday evening, 28th Sept., at 8 o'clock. Subject—Hebrews, 6th chap. 1st verse.

ENTRANCE INTO HOLY ORDERS.—We have read with some degree of approbation the observations of Archdeacon Allen upon the gross ignorance manifested by some person who offered himself for ordination—see Irish Times of the 25th inst)—and upon the usual preliminary examination, &c. Previous to being presented to the Bishop, some of whom, if not all bishops in Ireland, examine the candidates themselves also, and that this candidate for Holy Orders, from St. Eden's School, which has been dubbed a college at Birkenhead, could not tell what were the topics of St. Stephen's speech—of St. Paul's preaching to the thebanians on Mar's Hill, or his address to the Ephesian Elders at Miletus. We confess that we have seen deeply pained, if not most grievously humiliated; the facility with which the profession of our clergy as being degraded of late years by admitting persons in England to the high and holy office of the ministry—a profession which in Ireland has always stood high in the esteem of the learned and the respect of the vulgar, because we knew them to be men if not of earnest piety (and nine-tenths of them are), they are extensive erudition and often of first-rate talent. It is a matter of regret to the friends of our truly ritual church that there is one bishop in Ireland who has admitted one or two persons without a degree in holy orders, but in England it has not been an exception but frequently the case, probably without the deeming quality of devotion as an excuse for a defect.

The Bishop of Cork held an ordination in the Cathedral of St. Finn Barr when the following candidates were admitted into holy orders.—Deacons—James Oyd, A.B., on letters dimissory from the Archbishop of Dublin; Thomas Jasper Smith, A.B., mes Robinson, A.B., and William Thomas John, B., on letters dimissory from the Bishop of Derry; and Edward Samuel Radcliff, A.B., on letters dimissory from the Bishop of Meath. Priests—Rev. Wm. Edward Meade, A.M., John Jeffcott Dillon, A.B., v. Charles Samuel Bruce, A.B., and Rev. Thomas Tompson Gray, A.M. F.T.C.D., on letters dimissory from the Archbishop of Dublin; Rev. Samuel Mally Cluffe, A.B., and Rev. John Johnson, A.B., letters dimissory from the Bishop of Limerick; v. Charles Ormsby Wiley, A.B., and Rev. Lewis Hearn, A.B., on letters dimissory from the Bishop of Meath. The Bishop was assisted in the ordination the Ven. the Archdeacon of Cork, Vicar-General; Very Rev. the Dean of Cork, the Hon. and Rev. Charles B. Bernard, by whom the sermon was preached, and the Rev. R. S. Gregg.

The Treasurer of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul gratefully acknowledges the receipt of £10 from Right Rev. Dr. Butler, for the poor visited by the Society.

Joseph P. ... and costs of seven days' imprisonment for beating James O'Grady on the head with stones, by which he inflicted two severe wounds on that important portion of the prosecutor's person. Warrants were also directed to be issued against two others who were concerned in the same assault.

After disposing of some other cases of no public importance, the court adjourned.

CITY POLICE COURT.

James Spaight, Esq., and Dr. Kane, presided this morning in the Court.

James Cussen, a young man in the employment of a tobacconist in Broad-street, was charged with an assault on a watchman by giving him a blow with a brickbat on the side of the head which broke his hat and raised himself 3 feet off the ground. This charge was investigated at great length, but the watchman failed in substantiating it, and the accused was discharged with a caution.

A QUEER BAKER.—A man who was neither shaven nor shorn, but who was all "tattered and torn," and who said that he was a baker from Cork, and named Patrick Murphy, was charged by Mr. Jacob, of High-street, with being found on this morning up stairs in one of the bed-rooms, rigged out with one of the young mens' coats. Mr. Jacob's young man deposed to the fact.

Mr. Beauchamp said that this was the second charge against this baker from Cork; he was found up stairs in another house a few days ago with a petticoat belonging to the lady of the house on him, and he figuring a polka before a large cheval glass (laughter).

Mr. Spaight said that the accused was a queer baker, and sentenced him to a month's imprisonment.

A waiter from Cork, who came down to visit us during the races, and to see how matters are managed in this city, charged a nymph of the pave, of the name of Margaret M'Mahon, with robbing him of a sovereign and 25s. in silver; but not being able to sustain the charge the accused was liberated, and the Cork waiter was told that if he conducted himself as he ought he would not have lost his 50s.

James Reilly, alias James, Organ, who has been 25 times convicted of larcenies, was sent for trial for the 26th offence committed this morning in the corn-market, where he stole a farmer's top coat.

There were some drunken cases disposed of, and the court adjourned.

PEDESTRIANISM EXTRAORDINARY.

The hero of the following sporting event is a young Kerryman, being a grandson of the late Rev. William Godfrey, Rector of Kenmare:—

An occurrence took place on the 11th inst. which has excited considerable interest among military and sporting circles. Lieutenant Thomas, of the 2nd battalion of the 32nd Foot, stationed at Fulwood garrison lately alleged, in presence of some of his brother officers during mess, that he could walk, fully accoutred as a private soldier, and armed with rifle and bayonet, sixty miles within twenty hours. Bets were freely offered, which Lieutenant Thomas, as freely accepted, and £300 to £100 was staked in various sums against him. The sixty miles to be gone over were fixed to be on the turnpike road between Preston and Manchester. He commenced his task at a quarter past three o'clock on Friday morning, the starting-point being the first milestone from Preston, opposite a promenade known as the Ladie's Walk. He was fully accoutred in the full marching condition of a private soldier, with rifle, knapsack, kit, bayonet, and twenty rounds of ammunition, the whole weighing about 56lb. For the last few miles he exhibited manifest signs of exhaustion, but gamely kept on, and won with twenty-five minutes to spare.

The Treasurer of the Limerick Race Fund begs most gratefully to acknowledge receipt of the following contributions, per John Barry, Esq., Patrick-street:—From self, £1; Messrs. Bishop and Sons, London, £2 2s; Bernard and Co., Edinburgh, 10s; Ind, Coop and Sons, Boston-on-Trent, £10s; Marlow Brothers, Dublin, 10s; H. Malone, agent of Marlow Brothers, 10s; H. M.
