After all the talk and speculation, all the noise and excitement, all the backing and betting, all the confident announcements and sensation headings in the newspapers, there is now reason to believe that Mace and Coburn never intended to fight at all. Joe Coburn and his two brothers (who are said to have come direct from New York to witness the combat) were objects of much curiosity in this city upon yesterday, having arrived from Gold's Cross. They left by the 4 p.m. train for Dublin en route to London, where Joe is to demand the stakes.

A story is related of two parties from Limerick, who felt cold after journeying all night, in hardship, with the expectation of seeing the "fight," having gone into a field, near Dundrum, stripped themselves in regular trim, and commenced sparring, accompanied by seconds and a referee; so sure were the Constabulary that it was the regular "set too" that they arrested and kept them in custody until the matter was satisfactorily explained.

It is said that 3,000 guineas have been refused for Wild Agnes, and that 8,000 have been offered for Blair Athol by the French Government. The chestnut has only two engagements, which if he wins them, would be under a thousand.

A lad named Murphy was killed by a fall from a donkey on the road near Cork on Saturday.

CASTLECONNELL ARCHERY SOCIETY.—The third and last prize-meeting of the Castleconnell Archery Society took place on Thursday last, at the residence of Richard Gabbett, Esq., of Caherline. The archers were fortunate in having a most lovely autumn day, and the scene was gay in the extreme, and, considering the lateness of the season, and several previous meetings having been cold and wet, the members mustered in good force, and shot the allotted number of arrows, with more than even the usual spirit of emulation, for four beautiful prizes given by the society, and one given by the worthy host, than whom there is not a greater admirer of the art.

The successful competitors were as follows:—1st, for ladies, won by Mrs. Vansittart, a silver card-case; 2nd, for ladies, presented by Mr. Gabbett, and won by Mrs. Gubbins, an opera glass; 3rd, for best gold, Miss Gubbins, turquoise cross.

1st gentlemen's prize to Mr. Charles Gabbett, silver and Bohemian glass sugar bowl; 2nd, for best gold, to Mr. Phelps, a silver pocket flask.

This meeting terminates the season for the Castleconnell Club, which has been most successful, and the fortnightly reunions have been much enjoyed by all parties, giving every encouragement that an equally brilliant season may await the xophilites of the Castleconnell Club for the ensuing year.

The Irish American mentions the death of Major T. J. Connery, a native of Limerick, who was for some time connected with the press of New York, both as printer and reporter. The death is also recorded of Sergeant Harry O'Connor, of Clonmel, who died from the effects of wounds received at the battle of Gettysburg.

It is now stated that there will be no Commission of Inquiry to ascertain the causes of the Belfast riots, nor will there be a Special Commission to try the prisoners. The law will be allowed to take its usual course. Such of the prisoners as have been arrested for trivial offences will be discharged on their own recognisances. Those against whom more serious charges have been preferred will be tried at the Quarter Sessions about to be held in Belfast.

George Annesley Lyster, Esq., has been promoted from Maryborough branch bank of Ireland to the management of Bandon.

... districts are of a very inferior kind, and much less numerous than on former occasions. Col. Hilliard, of the constabulary, has, however, purchased a number of excellent horses for that force at large figures. Messrs. Ganley, Sons, and Parker held an auction on the fair green at one o'clock, which was largely frequented. They sold at least 50 horses at very prices, say from £20 to £80. The cattle are pouring in very fast for to-morrow's fair, and it is thought that the business will be over before 9 o'clock 2 30 p.m.—The supply of horses to-day was large, and a considerable amount of business has been effected since morning. There have been several foreign and military buyers present as well as English and Irish dealers. Some good prices were obtained, several horses bringing from £150 to £250. There is a large and fashionable attendance of Connaught gentry in town, no doubt induced by the fine weather.

FAILURE OF A MANCHESTER WAREHOUSEMAN—EXTENSIVE FORGERIES BY A CLERK.

The papers announce the suspension of Mr. A. Saloman, of Old Exchange, Manchester, Warehouseman.

The Times says the news created surprise, the horse having always enjoyed good credit. It appears to have resulted from the sudden discovery of forgeries, and defalcations to the amount, it is feared, of at least 40,000 by a person who had been in the establishment for 25 years, and who was now principal clerk and cashier. The estimation in which Mr. Saloman is held enabled the fraud to be easily carried out; the delinquent, who is supposed to have compromised himself in share and other speculations, having made exact copies of good bills drawn in connexion for the house for which he had no difficulty in obtaining discount. The detection took place from the circumstance of a few days holiday, which the clerk had professed to take, having been unaccountably prolonged, and from its being found that instead of having visited Hastings, whither he said he was going, there was reason to believe he had started for Liverpool. His desk was then broken open, and a letter of confession was found in it. In any ordinary position of embarrassment Mr. Saloman would at once have obtained the assistance of friends; but in the confusion and perplexity of the present case it was considered advisable to stop payment until further investigation.

The Times city article adds, facts connected with the above failure further illustrate the necessity for extreme vigilance, especially in speculative times, on the part of Bankers and Stock Brokers, and others, in dealing with persons other than principals who are placed in positions of trust.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

(From the Daily News.)

Yesterday there were further unwarranted rumours of impending mercantile failures, apparently set afloat by persons interested in public securities. Prominent reference was especially made to the case of a contractor who was said to have stopped with liabilities; but the fact is believed that this affair is now many weeks old, and that an arrangement which was entered into some time ago with the express assent of the principal creditors for the working out of the valuable contracts in hand is being satisfactorily carried out.

There is a greater dearth of water in Nenagh at present than has been experienced for a number of years past. Nearly all the public and private pumps dry, and many wells and springs in the neighbourhood which were never known to be without water, are in a similar condition.

The fair at Ballinasloe concluded yesterday. Nearly all sales of importance were effected on previous day, at prices rather lower than were as and given yesterday. Ewes were much sought after but the supply was small. The horse fair commenced nominally to-day, but business has been done in class every day this week. There is a fair supply valuable hunters, and the demand for these, as well for working horses, is brisk. Advantage was taken of the presence in the town of many of the leading noblemen and gentlemen of the county to the meeting having for its object the promotion of drainage of the Shannon and the Suck. The Earl of Clancarty presided, and stated the efforts made committees appointed at previous meetings to effect this improvement. Resolutions were passed touching the importance of having the rivers drained, and expressive of regret that the Government would not do the work. An unfortunate accident occurred at railway station, by which a porter named Cahill, his life. He was engaged uncoupling two wagons when he was caught between the buffers and crushed to death.

The October fair of Castleisland, which was held Monday, was scantily supplied with cattle, but it was an active inquiry for meat and milk. Milch cows were quickly bought up at high prices. Young sows were almost a drug. The pig market was well supplied—the demand brisk and good. Bacon ran from 48s to 52s per cwt. Well grown stores and young pigs were high.
