

g, held in June, and showed to the gentlemen that the election they had made on the 9th of as void, because it was not by ballot, as re- by the act of parliament. Colonel M'Namara got some intimation that his election was ille- signed, or, at least, did not attend the meet- the committee, but his place was filled by Mr. who attended the meetings ever since. Under circumstances, I contend that this was a purely nstituted body, and that legally no treasurer had ppointed, and, therefore, the presentment was rt—I can't be going into the legality of the on.

Hynes—But, my lord, I will state the facts to ically if you will permit me.

rt—State your objections at once.

Hynes—But there is another serious objection I have to state.

rt—What is that?

Hynes—Whether the money asked for could e judiciously curtailed, and the amount of the tment cut down, as the expenses of the insti- have been reduced. £1400 is the sum generally for, but considerably less than that would be
