

rested to place the hoisting traps inside the store. It is quite time to make a decision now. It could not be said to put the merchants to expense for himself, and was quite willing to abide by the decision of the meeting. He would move the motion:—

order to carry out more effectually the business of No. 2 Committee in reference to the business of life in William-street, and the business of lifting corn in the thoroughfares of this Council for their report, a letter be addressed to the Town Clerk to the several occupiers in this city, requesting them to con- sider the places inside the store, to be used inside traps, which have proved fatal to recorded the resolution.

Connell thought the resolution should not be passed in the absence of numbers of gentlemen who were present in the city (hear). In Liverpool, London, and many other large places, the same practice has prevailed to a great extent.

He urged the postponement of the motion, and asked what harm could result in delaying the decision until the next meeting, when it could be fully discussed.

The motion was carried.

He then read a report of the Gas Committee, and stated that the resignation of Alderman Messrs. Gabbett and Spright, as members of the committee, had been accepted. It also stated that the committee had recommended the advertisements in English and Scotch papers for a qualified engineer for the Gas Works. He said he had a number of applications for the consideration of Mr. Lynch, the applications for consideration to a committee of the then adjourned.

A deputation of ladies from Ireland attended at the House on Friday, to present some lace and shawls of Wales. The deputation consisted of the Marchioness of Waterford, the Marchioness of Clanricarde, the Marchioness of Clanricarde, the Countess of Cork, the Countess of the Viscountess Gort, the Lady Annally, the Marquis de Montebello, and Mrs. Taylor. The Marquis de Montebello accompanied the ladies, and presented an
