WOOLLENS, LINENS, COTTONS, &c. &c.

OWING to the advanced prices of these Goods, Housekeepers experience a large increase in their yearly expenditure, to which they themselves indirectly very much contribute by using in the Laundry, Soap, falsely called cheap, an Article which discolours, shrinks, and cuts away the Fabric, thus destroying it long before its legitimate time, I respectfully inform the Public that I manufacture an article not to be excelled for durability, and which will be found pure and free from all deleterious compounds, always preserving its proper weight, and which neither effects the skin or injures the most delicate Fabric, which I sell at prices as cheap, if no cheaper, than any House in Dublin or elsewhere. Quality insured not only by Crown Stamp and Name in full but also by Trade Mark.

I beg also to direct attention to my Yellow Primrose for Toilet use, &c.

White, Pale Yellow, and Brown Soaps for Household purposes; finest Patent Colman's and Iris Starch; best Blues, Washing Soda, &c.

Toilet Soap (carefully selected) in variety; Mould and Store Candles, Wax Sperm, Indian Sperm (highly commended), Paraffin, and Dropless Candles, Night Lights, Tapers, Carriage Candles, &c.
