LONDON, JUNE 12.

THE CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER ON PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer was present on Tuesday evening at a banquet at the Merchant Tailors' Hall. The toast of her Majesty's Ministers was drunk with all the honours.

The right hon. gentleman, in acknowledgement, referred at considerable length to the great measure of the session. He said he looked upon the Reform Bill of last year as one which, if carried, would have seriously injured, if not destroyed, the Conservative party. "We believe that the measure we have brought forward is one which will not injure the Conservatives, but will satisfy the requirements of the State. Will the monarchy of England be endangered by it? The Sovereign has never been surrounded by subjects more devoted than those her Majesty will find among the toiling millions of this country at the present. Is it then, the Parliament of England that is endangered? Why, what is all the agitation about but a desire on the part of a great portion of the people to become more intimately acquainted with one of the Houses of Parliament (the House of Commons). So far as the peerage is concerned, the only criticism I ever heard with reference to the House of Lords is, that they are not more forward to take part in public affairs. As for the Church of England, I hope there is no member of the House of Commons who will be found to express a belief that, in consequence of the measures we have introduced, the Church of England will be in more danger than it is at present. I am told that great danger will arise from the new constituency with reference to the system of taxation, and that an attempt will be made to throw the burden of taxation on property, which will end in a recurrence to the old protective system. Why, these two objections destroy each other (cheers). It would be quite impossible to re-enact the old protective system, and, at the same time, to throw the whole burden of taxation on property. True, we are on the eve of a great change, but believe me that the elements of democracy do not exist in England. England is a company of classes and the change that is impending on this company will only make these classes more united, more complete, and more cordial. I am warned by the example of America, but there is no similarity between the United States and the United Kingdom." The right hon. gentleman said, in conclusion—"I own I am proud and happy that the conduct of this great change, which I believe will add to the greatness and glory of our country, has fallen to the Tory party" (cheers).

Amongst others, Mr. Frederick Vining, the veteran actor, was the victim of a garotte attack last week, from the effects of which he is slowly recovering.

THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE

THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 18, 1867.

DREADFUL OCCURRENCE.

A sad occurrence has taken place at Camheen, a short distance from this city. On Saturday last, Mr. Cunneen, who had advertised his farm for sale at Camheen, died after a few days illness, and his wife was so affected, as to eventually become insane, and she was heard to say that if the youngest child, aged four months, were placed on the fire her husband's soul would go to heaven. On Monday while the servant was out on business, Mrs. Cunneen, labouring under insanity, took the child from the cradle, placed it on the fire, and heaped burning coals on it, and was caught in that act by the servant. The child was afterwards brought into town, where though attended by Dr. Bourke, it died, and an inquest was held yesterday, by John Gleeson, Esq., and a jury who returned a verdict in accordance with the facts, pronouncing the woman insane, and who is retained in the county gaol.

LIMERICK ATHENÆUM—THE CONCERT FOR THE ORGAN FUND.

The Concert in aid of the Organ Fund at the Athenæum, on Tuesday night last, was in every respect what may be termed a complete success. We regret we cannot at present refer to it further. A second concert in furtherance of the same object will take place to-morrow evening.

The following programme will be performed in Percy Square, on Saturday next, by the band of the 74th Highlanders:—

March,	"Assays,"	Savrai.
Overture,	"Demino Noir,"	Cuber.
Selection,	"Il Trovatore,"	Verdi.
Walse,	"Dream on the Ocean,"	Gunge.
Selection,	"Norma,"	Bellini.
Walse,	"Faust,"	Gounod.
Quadrille,	"Vive Paris,"	Finney.
Galop,	"Gladiateur,"	Tadini.
	God Save the Queen.

We have seen a sample of new potatoes, (founders), grown in the open air belonging to Mr. John Eggleston, engineer of the Water Works Company, and certainly a finer specimen could not be seen at so early a period of the season; they are large, and both dry and flowery. The seed was purchased at the establishment of Messrs. J. and G. Boyd, William street.

Dr. Colenso has informed the clergy of the diocese of Natal that if they "will but acknowledge his authority they may teach what doctrine they like." The Watchman says that even Bishop Thirlwall and Dean Stanley must give up after that.

The Watchman or Wesleyan Advertiser gives the following interesting statistics of the receipts of Religious Societies during 1866:—Wesleyan Missionary Societies, £148,140; Wesleyan Home Mission, £24,459; Society for Propagation of Gospel, £91,186; Church Building Society, £7,720; Church of England Sunday Schools, £806; Bible Translation Society, £1,552.
