THANKS.

Colooney-street, August 1st, 1868.
 To James Spaight, Esq.
SIR,—Permit me to return you and other gentle men my sincere thanks, who so kindly and promptly gave the aid of your valuable services at the late disastrous fire that occurred on my premises, Colooney-street; but in a more especial manner, I feel my gratitude is due to you on that melancholy occasion, with that courtesy and promptitude which distinguish you, when the well-being of your fellow-citizens was at stake, you drove immediately to the New Barracks, obtained the assistance of the fire engine and the Military, to whom I, also, am grateful for the spirit and resolution exemplified at such a trying moment, and in common with them you exerted yourself to the utmost to arrest the course of the devouring element. Sir, I now respectfully tender to you this public expression of my feelings, assuring you, I will ever retain a grateful sense of your kindness and humanity at so harrowing and fearful a scene, and under (to me) such truly painful circumstances.

I am, Sir,
 Your obedient humble Servant,
MICHAEL McDONOGH.
