The marriage of the Marquis of Balfour took place on the evening at St. George's Church, London. The wedding attracted a large number of guests. The bride was attended by six bridesmaids, and given away by her father. Captain Hawker acted as groom. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. J. Campbell, assisted by the Rev. J. G. Campbell. The breakfast was held at the residence in Belgrave-square. The Express has learned that the Queen has sent for Sir James Fergusson, proposed with a view of entrusting the command of the expedition to that gentleman. It is also reported that eventually the office of High Commissioner for the Forces in Ireland will thus
