THE PARIS CORRESPONDENT OF THE LONDON AUTHORIZED TO CONTRADICT THE STATE EMPEROR addressed to Count Daru, after the famous speech, a letter of congratulation. The same writer is authorized to contradict that France has proposed to the other powers a general disarmament. "For no proposal for the reduction of the army and is not likely to do so after Count Daru's speech. The reduction of the military establishment lately made known means simply that a portion of men have been sent on furlough as it may be to lessen the taxation on the army establishment, this is not the making any reduction."
