February 22.

The future establishment of a regiment of Cavalry will consist of twenty four officers, 458 men, and 300 horses. The seven troops of which it will consist will be officered by seven captains, seven lieutenants, and three supernumerary lieutenants on cornet's pay. Thus, for the present, at least, has been decided the vexed question of the abolition of cornets, so long under discussion.

The very extensive Distillery now being erected at Belfast, with all recent improvements for the manufacture of Irish whisky, by Messrs. DUNVILLE & Co, who have gained a world-wide celebrity for their fine old Irish whisky, is to be called "The Royal Irish Distillery."
