This morning command did all that lay in them they occupied the Place were nothing but a heap of ruins. We isolated the Louvre and we have every reason to be unscathed. Unfortunately, the flames (sensation). We were masters of Paris this evening the latest. Of this our Generals were victorious, but we were losers of the situation. These uses of the petroleum threw us, and several of the latter must before all remain calm, united. Union is absolutely the key of the victory which we have said deserved Europe, M. Thiers added, has given us proof. Berlin will weaken both the offensive power. After results revealed, one must not be dishonored (loud cheers). It is equally, but implacably. In the final, the public conscience will punish with the sword. M. Thiers then proposed to assemble the right of pardon will have thus a part in our use you decline to share it, I myself, if necessary. After military operations, the judges do their duty." M.
