

agent to Mr. Henry on those lands; knows this portion of the river Shannon near Killaloe since I was a boy; I don't know much about the Cussane weirs, but knows something about the Fort Henry weirs; knows the Ballina and Castle weirs; they were all removed at the same time; the Shannon Commissioners were carrying on operations for a considerable time; Mr. Henry used to visit his estate there four or five times each year.

To his lordship—Mr. Leahy was sub-agent at the time of the removal of the weirs; Mr. Leiland was agent.

Daniel Considine examined by Mr. Exham, Q.C.—Knows the river Shannon above Killaloe, and knows this point, and never heard it called any name but Rineinch.

Martin Buckley examined by Mr. Smyth—Am master of a ship, and knows this part of the river near Killaloe; never heard the point there called by any other name than Rineinch.

Oliver Hannigan, examined by Mr. Atkinson—I am about 75 years of age, and boated about 46 years ago, and knows Rineinch as well as I know where I am now sitting; never heard it called by any other name.

John Hogan examined by Mr. Exham—I am on my 76th year; was born and reared in Fortherry; knows the lands of Rineinch; the point on that land is never called anything but Rineinch; was fishing in the river for a considerable time along with Mr. Hastings; on one occasion when the Killaloe men heard of their taking some fifty or sixty salmon in one draw they brought a quantity of stones in nets and threw them into the nets which they had set there, but Mr. Twist's father got a large strong net and yoked two horses to them and drew them out of it again; we often fished there since in the broad day light and was never hindered.

Cross-examined by Mr. Heron—Knows Irish, Dromeen means the back of something; never heard the point called Dromeen, but heard a man about 90 years of age who was born in a turf boat, swore an affidavit to the effect that the land called Dromeen was on another part of the river; the highest point they used to draw at was called the beyonds.

Patt Burns examined by Mr. Smyth—I live at Ballyvally; knows the point above Killaloe, on the Tipperary side; heard of the point there called Joyce's Point, Long Point, and Rineinch Point; knows the place for the last 30 years; fished about there over five hundred times on both sides of the river with both nets and rods at this side of Killaloe; saw the Edwards and Ellises and others fish for perch with a net; saw the Ellises fish for salmon there with a net about five or six years ago.

Cross-examined by Mr. Fitzgibbon—There is not a good draw for salmon above Balboroo bridge; knows that portion of the river since I was a child; don't know who fished Short's fishing when he got it first; the Ellises could be paid by the Edwards for fishing without my knowledge.

Michael D'Arcy, examined by Mr. Atkinson—Am about 45 years of age and reside in Ballina; know the lands of Ryaninch and never heard the point then called anything but Ryaninch; knows the Head family; they often fished near Derry to Killaloe; don't know that I saw him fish near Poolaclarane; raised Marl near Ryaninch point.

Daniel M'Namara examined by Mr. Smyth—Am 55 years of age; lives in O'Connellloe above Kilarana near the Shannon; knows the point at the Tipperary side of the Shannon near Killaloe; it was called Ryaninch; often fished from Rinduff to Ryaninch for trout or salmon with cross-lines; often saw other people fishing there; the weir wall is a little below the pier head at Killaloe; saw people fishing there.

Cross-examined by the Solicitor-General—Knows a man named Edwards, but never saw him fishing; never saw Cummins fishing; never saw the Ellises fishing at that point; resides about six miles above Killaloe on the Clare side.

Daniel Darcy examined by Mr. Atkinson—Am something over 60 years of age; resides at O'Connellloe; lived on the ploughland near Ryaninch; knows the point there and never heard it called by any name but Ryaninch.

Henry Head, examined by Mr. Smyth—I am about 54 years of age; held the lands as a tenant from my father since '42, and am now possessor of them myself; knows the points at Ryaninch; never the Harbour Commissioners of being instrumental in instigating a riot amongst dock labourers in February last. His worship affirmed the magistrates decision with 40s. costs.

MARKET JURY.

The following were sworn as a market jury:—Thomas Bird, Maurice Bourke, John M. Connell, Michael Conway, Mungret-street; Patrick Dillon, John Duggan, John Fanning, Patrick Fitzgibbon, Michael Griffin, Denis Guerin, and Michael Hanlon.

His Worship forcibly addressed the jury respecting their duties in the inspection of meat, milk, &c., and they should meet the Mayor on a day to be fixed by his Worship.

The Mayor and the jury then left the Court, and the criminal business was proceeded with.

Michael O'Brien was indicted for stealing a quantity of feathers on the 21st March, 1872, from Michael O'Connell, Denmark-street.

Mr. Leahy, S.C.S., prosecuted, and the prisoner was undefended.

A girl residing in the house was examined, and stated that she did not see the prisoner steal the feathers, but they were taken from the bed in which he slept that night, and that the tick was not opened upon the previous day, nor could the feathers be taken out of it as she made up the bed on the day before the feathers were stolen.

Other witnesses having been examined,

His Worship summed up the evidence, and the jury retired, and after a short absence returned a verdict of guilty with a recommendation to mercy.

The prisoner pleaded guilty to previous convictions for larceny.

Sentence deferred.

Margaret Clifford, sen., and Margaret Clifford, jun., were arraigned on a charge of stealing 10 yards of tweed from the establishment of the Warehouse Company.

Mr. Leahy, Crown Solicitor, prosecuted; Mr. Doyle defended the prisoners.

Mr. Gibson, buyer in the employment of the Company, proved that the defendants stole the cloth.

Patrick Fitzgerald was examined by Mr. Leahy, and stated that a trowsers produced in court and which was identified by the previous witness as the property of the Warehouse Company, and that the young prisoner came into the pawn-office to pledge it, but he previously got a stop from the police with a sample of the tweed on which to act; when the girl brought the trowsers he sent for the police and got her arrested.

Cross-examined by Mr. Doyle—To the best of my judgment the trowsers now in court is the same that was brought to my pawn-office by the young girl.

Constable Murphy was next examined, and stated that from informations he received he went to the house of the prisoner, and on making search, he found the cloth produced in court secreted in a cupboard; he also found the selvege produced inside the case of an American clock.

In reply to Mr. Leahy the shop assistant stated that the tweed was worth 7s. 6d. per yard.

Mr. Doyle then addressed the jury on behalf of the prisoner.

James Madden was then called and examined for the defence. He stated that he knew Lifford, and stated that he went to his house about the 13th February last with an account of some matters in connection with a wedding which had been prepared by Mr. Coffee; in the kitchen he spoke to Clifford about the nakedness of his children; he then opened a cupboard and said, Here is tweed which I have to make clothes for them if my wife was at home.

His Worship then summed up the entire evidence, and the jury returned a verdict of guilty against Mary Clifford, sen., but found Margaret Clifford, jun., not guilty.

Mary Clifford, sen., pleaded guilty to a previous conviction.

The prisoner was then put back, and the court adjourned.
