

to the foregoers to the service of $1 per cent for the Presidency. A were despatched occurred in which and three of the Thursday, Walter playmate of Miss on a charge of obse Affidavits were a too ill to appear ren by consent, states that it is ave the Secretary hat if defeated in rd of his contest, and $8,000 a year, jobs. the Mallow Board tion of accommo- thorise the expen- sary alterations furniture, and $60 uring considerable ing of the inhabi- Imperial Hotel, to ganising a great It was considered be the most suit- ge excursions from stopped at the last e capacity of the 0,000 to cover ex- rred in connection they would continue us not paid. The ed to Mr French of eaths from cholera iday. As many as e disease in Berlin, alarming extent in state that Asiatic on of life in Illinois, rive hours in one three hours. They e attack and turned are rapidly leaving for the disease. i was passing the re at Maryborough, r frequently inter- he was going to d sudden," that he a quick or he would ck to the cell under- head or arms was icking in the River was in an advanced e dressed in an oil s. No clue has been e. sions yesterday, a er was remanded on as alleged that the rly horrible circum- st of the prisoner al steamer Egypt. long to one of the et committed suicide y been suffering from curable. During the am he lived, in a spair, he took up a ough his heart, death abourers' Union hav- e condition of the n the subject has re- council, chiefly re- eastern parts of the scribes the wretched declares that a wors- re Irish agricultural Europe. Major Leech disco- London stores of a id in the eight months ined at 2239,919. oughlan, of Ross, pa- to carry arms is re- ize. Rose," the property of, Fermoy, won the s- of the Manchester society held at Chester Paris all idea of the ioned. The Conserva- prolong Marshal Mac on the Berkshire county had voted for olours of Mr Gladstone "Hour" says Scotch reived that the alliance idicalism is most un- reserved at the cost of est prices were obtained by Messrs Hogan and McCoy, Shanagolden. The usual buyers from Limerick, Tralee, Kilmallock, and Tipperary, were in attendance, and bought up very quickly. The number of firkins in market to-day exceeds that of the corresponding market last season by 54 firkins.—CORRESPONDENT.

THE TESTIMONIAL TO FATHER COSTELLOE.

THE testimonial presented to Rev Father Costelloe, C.C. Ballingarry, has been increased by the kind subscription of one pound from M. De Gernon, Esq., R.M., Kilmore House, to whom the Secretaries express their best acknowledgments. In the list of contributors the sum of £1 from William Carroll, Esq., Coolruss, should have appeared.

TRALEE BOROUGH ELECTION.

Tralee, Thursday Evening.—Nothing of importance has transpired here since I telegraphed last evening. The O'Donoghue is still in town, but he has not put in a public appearance since he was escorted by the crowd last evening to the County Club. It was confidently stated last evening by his friends that he would canvass the to-day, but he has not done so; his friends I believe alleging that some advocates of his are absent, while the Home Rulers assert it is through dread. The excitement which permeated the town yesterday is somewhat calmed down, and it is a remarkable fact that the women are not so demonstrative. Little knots are collected at each of the street corners, but saving the fact that the constabulary on their beat have been greatly increased, a stranger could not believe in Tralee we were almost all mad yesterday.

ROYAL IRISH CONSTABULARY.

Head Constable Robert Wilson, of Lurgan, has obtained a month's leave of absence, Constable Joseph Whelan, of that town, discharging his duty in the meantime. Sub constable Patrick Martin has been transferred from the above town to Poyntzpass; and Sub constables Argue and Atwell have been removed from Lurgan to Warrington, Co. Down. Constable Richard Moore has been transferred from Warrington, County Down. Constable M'Donald has been changed from Killinchy, County Down, to Warrington.

The memorial presented to the Lord Lieutenant by the magistrates of Westmeath, praying for the removal of the extra constabulary force from that county, having received an affirmative response. 50 men were to be immediately withdrawn, an event which will considerably lower the county cess. The police station recently established at the Irish Peat Works, near the Hill of Down, has been broken up and the men recalled to their former quarters.

Four additional constables have been allotted to the barony of Coonagh, Limerick.

An escort, under command of Captain Haughton, of the 28th Depot, has arrived at Athlone, from Limerick, with the arms of the Limerick County Militia. On arrival he handed them over to the Control Department.

The Lord Chancellor of Ireland and Lady O'Hagan left London yesterday for the Earl of Abingdon's seat near Oxford, to attend the funeral of Lady Norreys.

The Pope has addressed a brief to the members of the English Pilgrimage Committee, expressing admiration of their conduct, and urging that prayer should be offered for the triumph of the Church in Rome and elsewhere.

A marriage, which was regarded with a good deal of interest, was celebrated on Wednesday in the Catholic church of Navan between Miss Cullen, of Liscaarten Castle, niece of his Eminence Cardinal Cullen, and Mark Delany, Esq., of Dumnova, Navan. A large number of the gentry of the town and county were present. Cardinal Cullen, assisted by the Most Rev Dr Nulty, Bishop of Meath, officiated. The Most Rev Dr Moran, Bishop of Ceshry, the Most Rev Dr Conry, Bishop of Ardagh, and several of the clergy of the diocese were present.

A new church will be soon built in Hopkinton village, the plans have been made and estimates for its construction have been called for.

Charles O'Hara, a well known and esteemed citizen of Marblehead, has been appointed 1st Lieutenant of Company C of the old 6th Regt.

St Joseph's Catholic church at Stockbridge will be dedicated on Sunday, the 31st.

The Church of the Assumption, Jamaica Plain, was dedicated in the presence of a large congregation by Right Rev J. J. Williams. Among those present were—light Rev P. T. O'Reilly, and Rev Fathers Frietag, C.S.B.; Thomas Magennis, pastor of the church, W. J. Corcoran, D. O'Callaghan, M. Green, J. Barry, H. R. O'Donnell and W. McDonnell. The church is 165 feet by 68 in dimension, and cost about 80,000 dolrs. Mr McGillivuddy did the work and Mr Brazer the frescoing. The church was finely decorated.

A Catholic college for the education of priests has been projected by Bishop Hennessy, of Dubuque, Iowa, and will be carried into practical operation at once, using as temporary quarters, the Sisters' unoccupied academy on Fourteenth street. The bishop proposes to make the institution a credit to the church and the state of Iowa.

John Dillon, and Captain Dillon, and proceeded to Kilmoran, the seat of Colonel Tennison, and the journey thus terminating, Colonel McKerris returned by Carrick-on-Shannon, and proceeded to Dublin that night. The Viceroy was highly pleased with his excursion from first to last, and is now fully conversant with the course of the Shannon, the works by which the navigation is formed, the extent and effect of the floodings, and the necessity of preventing the destruction of property caused by these.

CORONER'S INQUEST—MELANCHOLY DEATH BY DROWNING.

On Thursday last, M J De Courcy, Esq., Sol., Coroner, held an inquest in the City Court, on the body of Simon Griffin, who came to his death under the following circumstances:—The deceased, who belonged to Moyasta, midway between Kilmash and Kilkee, was a young man, aged about 22 years, and was engaged as a boatman on board a turf boat, the property of a man named Michael Dickson, of Kilmash. On Thursday morning, a little after 7 o'clock, the boat left Arthur's-quay for her homeward trip, and was being warped towards the Wellesly Bridge when it became the duty of the deceased to go ashore at the north side of the Lie-by to carry a rope to a mooring post. To do this he got on the balwark of the boat, and placed his hands on the quay, which was about on a level with his breast; he then made his effort to jump up, but not using strength enough with either arms or legs to reach the required height for getting on shore, he fell backward into the water. In falling he struck his head against the boat, and reaching the water, sank; he instantly rose to the surface, but so helpless and stunned that his eyes were closed, and he was unable to do anything but beat the water aimlessly with his hands as he lay on his back. Dickson, an aged man, flung the rope he held in his hands on to poor Griffin's breast, shouting to grasp it, but he made no effort to do so, and again sank to rise no more, with life, from the water. The body was recovered about ten minutes after, when life was found to be completely extinct. The remains were conveyed to the dead-house, and a jury was sworn by Mr De Courcy at 4 o'clock, to inquire into the circumstances. The deceased's father, and Dickson, deposed to the age of Griffin, the fact that he was sober when he was drowned, and the foregoing circumstances. Mr De Courcy briefly addressed the jury, who returned a verdict of Accidental Death.

On yesterday morning M J De Courcy, Esq., City Coroner, held another inquest into the cause of the death of Stephen Neville, whose body was found in the floating docks.

The following citizens were sworn to the jury:—John Earls, Denis Molony, John Molony, Michael Purcell, Timothy Hayes, Denis Hayes, James Suiel, John Dillon, Richard Punob, Thomas Cleary, John Dineen, and James O'Brien.

After viewing the body, the following evidence was given:—

Samuel Reidy examined, deposed—I knew the deceased; that is his body which now lies in the dead house; he was over sixty years of age and a widower; he was employed by Mr Long, CE, to watch the graving dock by night; I saw him last alive about ten minutes to eleven o'clock on Thursday night when he was with me at the gate; he went to his duty at the other side of the caisson, and was quite sober at the time; I did not afterwards see him go out at my gate, but he might have gone out without my knowledge; the deceased was missed on the following morning, and this morning his body was found in the floating dock; I often saw deceased go with a kettle at night to get water out of the docks.

This was the only evidence given, and the jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

On yesterday evening Mr De Courcy held a third inquest on the body of a child named Patrick Crowe. The inquest was held in Athlone street, where the deceased had been staying previous to his death.

The following jury was sworn:—John Kelly, Charles Coleman, Patrick Donovan, John McCraith, Charles O'Connor, Michael Hartnett, Peter Hartnett, Patrick Sheahan, John Carroll, William Nunan, John Cronin, and Thomas O'Brien.

Catherine Murnane, grandmother of the deceased, deposed that on the evening of the 5th inst deceased went out to play; did not see him alive afterwards; a search was made by several people but it was only that day his body was discovered by some boys.

Michael Healy deposed that about half past two o'clock that afternoon he was on the King's Island accompanied by another young lad; they had a dog with them which discovered the body of deceased in the furze of the Island field.

Dr Carey, of Barrington's Hospital, deposed having examined the body of deceased; there were marks on the forehead as if caused by suffocation.

The jury found a verdict of "Accidental drowning."

This, we may remark, is the sixth death by drowning which has happened within less than two months.

The witness deposed that he was quite sure he could not identify the girl.

To Head Constable O'Brien—I gave a description of the girl to the police.

Head Constable O'Brien—Could you not give the same description now?

Witness—I could not except by night (laughter) The witness identified the witch as his; but he could not be certain about the ring, though in his information he swore it was his.

Their Worships discharged the prisoners with a caution, and ordered the watch to be returned to Joyce.

Three men named Patrick Gallagher, Michael Knox and Thomas Toole were charged with trespassing on the premises of the Waterford and Limerick Railway.

Thomas O'Brien an employee of the Railway Company deposed that on the 3rd inst. he found the defendants trespassing on the premises on the arrival of the half past one o'clock mail train; he then desired them to leave the premises and they did so; Mr Banks gave orders to turn them out; the defendants said they were on business at the place; one of them said he was waiting for a gentleman who was to come by the train; they went away when ordered to do so.

Alderman O'Callaghan—But surely you would not summon those boys if they went away when you desired them to do so.

Gallagher—We were there several times and never prevented until this occasion.

The cases against the defendants was dismissed. A boy named Joseph Dillon was brought up charged with trespassing on the premises of the Great Southern and Western Railway.

John Thompson, policeman employed at the railway, deposed that on the 5th inst he found the defendant in the railway carriages and on the wall; there were sometimes articles left in those carriages, and the Company did not want to have such youngsters prowling about the place.

The defendant was fined 2s 6d or a week's imprisonment.

Two men named Creamer and McMahon were charged by a man named John Sheehan with having assaulted and used abusive language towards him on the 4th August. The defendants, Militiamen, had been since away at the Curragh, and so could not be summoned until the present time.

Their Worships ordered the defendants to find bail to keep the peace, or in default to go to gaol for two months.

Two men named John Yelverton and Patrick Leahy were charged at the suit of the Corporation with causing annoyance to the public by removing the roof of a house in Brunswick street, thereby causing an amount of dust and rubbish to fall down to the great detriment of the passers by.

Mr James Forrest, Sanitary Inspector, deposed that the nuisance was the greatest possible for all parties. The people passing by had their eyes blinded by the masses of dust coming down. All the rubbish was let down by a slide, instead of in baskets, as it should properly be done.

Mr Kenny—I am instructed that has not been done.

Mayor—Surely they cannot take down a house by basketfuls.

Mr Forrest, in answer to Mr Connolly, deposed that he had on several occasions warned the defendants not to continue the work as they were doing it, but they only gave insolence and refused to discontinue.

To Mr Kenny, solr.—I live in the same street; I was not one bit annoyed myself as a resident, but I was as a public officer; I broke no boards when I went up stairs, nor did I threaten to drive it down the men's throats; I was just standing under the slide and Yelverton above, and he let a basketful of the rubbish and dust slide down on me; I never heard of such treatment to any public officer.

Mr John Cronin, Clerk at St John's Cathedral, deposed that there was a great nuisance caused by the dust coming down; he suffered from it himself; he heard Mr Forrest arguing with the men up stairs, and they spoke most offensively to him; Mr Forrest's language was full of charity, forbearance and humility.

Their Worships dismissed the case, although they believed that Mr Forrest acted quite properly in complaining of the nuisance.

Bridget Hayes against Bridget Griffin.—This was a case and a cross case for an assault of the ordinary character. Both parties were bound over to keep the peace.

Mr and Mrs Storn summoned Mr Kennedy to assault, and using abusive and slanderous language towards them on the 2nd instant. It appeared that both parties were at the court the last day, an after going away Mr Kennedy called them robber and used various other unparliamentary expressions towards the complainants. She showed phisical force against Mrs Storn, who frankly admits that she retaliated by attacking and carrying Mrs Kennedy's clothes.

Their Worships bound both ladies to keep the peace.

Mr John Mullins, a respectable looking young man, and lately an engine driver in the employ of the Waterford and Limerick Railway, summoned Mr Andrews, Locomotive Superintendent of the Company at Limerick, to show cause why he would not give plaintiff a discharge and certificate of character.

Mr Connolly, solicitor, appeared for the plaintiff.