

circumstances improved.

Lord Bishop of Limerick has left and.

use for the Nenagh land sessions for Monday last.

a Regatta at O'Brian's Bridge on last. It is intended it shall surpass all in the number of races and at the Broadford district states was the presentation of wood firing & White, M.P., to the poor of that of the fuel yet remain untouched, local should it be required.

or the gold watch generously presented, T.C., to the Rev. G. O'Sullivan, for the benefit of his Church, presided over by William Spillane, as won by the Most Rev. Dr Butler, the Diocese.

the Band visited Limerick on Sunday were hospitably entertained by the Foresters. They played some through the principal streets of the ed by a host of friends and citizens, enjoy themselves thoroughly. There some squabbling at the Railway, they returned home in the even-and a wide one, is about being grants, by the United States Government a territory of 150 miles in length in breadth, has been bought for 500, from the native Indians, to whom are allotted for agricultural settle- land are equal to the richest public. They lie between the Redars, and the North Pacific Railway a them and make them accessible.

new Church, building in Ballingarry at zeal of the warm-hearted pastor, Burrough, P.P., is rapidly approach- The walls are within five feet of ne, and all the work is exquisitely builder' (Mr. Walsh, of Foynes), ice promises to be not only a credit ut to the whole diocese, in which it quals. It is satisfactory to find that t is so generously received in his subscriptions, and we trust that ion has marked his efforts in raising le to God's glory, up to this, may the close and conclusion of his try.

"up" in agricultural affairs, having been, if we mistake not, formerly one of the principals at the Mungrat Model Farm. Samuelson's was "coached" by a burly countryman, who made his team go along pretty well, Burgess' and Key's by Mr Simons, who appeared as if he would be much more at home with the ribbons of a crack "four-in-hand" between his fingers, and Hornsby's by Mr Magennis, whose lesser experience was at once evident. The machines were started at half past one o'clock by Mr Clive, Samuelson's getting under weigh first, Woods' and Burgess' next, and Hornsby's last. They tore away at a steady pace for a time, but Hornsby's implement was not alone cutting down the grass but skinning part of the surface, so that the horses sulked at the draught, and before the defect was remedied, the machine—to use a sporting phrase—was "out of the running." Burgess's machine got foul a number of times, or at least had to be cleared or stopped so often for some cause that though it did very fair work it had not finished the allotted share within reasonable time. Samuelson's got on pretty well, cutting very closely, but seemed to require an attendant occasionally to clear the teeth of the knife. However, it is but just to say, it appeared the best of the machines, save one, and decidedly that was Woods'. All were heavy and cumbersome compared with Woods', which not alone finished the task, a quarter of an acre, before the others, but it was not stopped once, and not "a hair was turned" on the little jetsam when they were pulled up at the finish. Even after his quarter of an acre was done, the driver proceeded to exhibit the efficiency of the machine, by cutting some of the other shares, and subsequently testing its qualities in a weighty crop, on a natural meadow, in the neighbourhood, with the same success. The proceedings were very pleasant, and concluded about three o'clock.

DEATH.

Deeply lamented by a large, highly respectable and affectionate family circle, on the morning of Sunday last, of puerperal fever, Margaret, the beloved wife of Galbraith Joynt, Esq., Bellicisle. The deceased lady was the second of the amiable daughters of Joseph Hanan, Esq., Mount Saint Lawrence, and was greatly esteemed for her virtues and accomplishments. Her mortal remains were accompanied to their last place of rest at Doonan, by a very large funeral procession; and amongst the clergymen present were—Rev Francis McMahon, PP. Cleonara; Rev Mr McGrath, CC. do; Rev P. Hennessy, PP. Castleconnell; Rev Mr Kennedy, CC. do; Rev Mr Molony, PP. Dunguaire; Rev Mr Madden, CC. Ballybricken; and Rev Dean Aiken, Rector, Doonan.

"Sir—The Local land acknowledge the proceedings of the Bo Union on the 18th inst requesting their same the Guardians, of a salary of £50 each; Brodie, who has resign the proposal will receive

The Local Gover formed of the reasons service by making a diocesan officer change every period of three years.

It appears to the such an arrangement disadvantageous equal their respective parishes. By ord

Mr McCraith said i the last day, and he ered from the concluding having four doctors in hand in a notice of one year.

The Chairman said i cure the matter. They intend to make it

Mr Frost said that reasons given for the tocs given in the report refer the Commissioners never (hear).

Mr Cronin agreed reasons were given for them.

Dr O'Sullivan said i a very wise one that take charge of a different month. He would not be on male cases, be female side, nor would treating chronic cases, ly to deal with such a lawed, for example, in was pursued by gentle hospital practice.

Mr Barry said it w on his part, for a man an opinion on such a medical man such as should say that his dim opinion, and he did so thought, and learning man. He believed th changed in the way of inconvenience, and, per the medical men would to attend. Suppose them, had a number of