гавір ін Браін, на ме ооset, is imbecile. All his eloquence. He was not ohn Russell, to take comor fleet. He neither inobedience inside or outside ross of the Republic have e North; the cause of the Navarre, and the impotence exposed in Cubs, in which, , indifference to its prohibislaughter of one hundred ng American steamer, the ported to have been per-order to abstain from the inly after the fate of General section of the victims was or worth belonged to the and his minister, the rest of d have been saved from the sangningry "Voinnteers of many were inhumanly sarom suspending the sentence after a semblance of trial, ateers" only accelerated and age. The whole were slain e to the mock mandate of Cashe precipitate scorn of his ts impotence excited. w, if even his intervention fective, that it was exercised of the immolation was conere is no question that his led him to assume a position, es of which he could not fulre in Cuba would not have contingency of the seizure of Americans have arisen, if he to the emergency, or the task ndertake. He could and he posed earlier. A lengthened om the capture of the steamer until the formal trial of the sere was full time for the inistelar; but in his folly and mained passive, and the most ster of modern days leaves an ain upon the Spanish nation, e vengeance which the Amet, too tardy and abstinent in haps for a pretent of invasion, icop when all is over at of the forthcoming retribu-

ient Grant or Secretary Fisk, verted the slaughter of the turers who lie in their nd to whom the only atonement offered is the effusion of more में heads जेलक के देशकर प्रात्त

The Carried Carried STONE GOVERNMENT.

I that the Premier's object in ssure for a dissolution of Parfind an opportunity of gesting to to morskilling (tentilise on or the

Robert Vere O'Brien, Esq., Old Church, Limerick.

TIPPERARY COUNTY .- The Honourable Geo. O'Callaghan, Shanbally, Clogheen; John Bayly. Esq., Debsborough, Nenagh; James Scully, Esq, Shanballymore, Tipperary.

WATERFORD COUNTY .- Edward Quin, Rsq, Shanakiel House, Carrick-on-Suir; Wray Bury Pulliser, Esq. Annestown, Tramore; Richard A Chearnley, Esq. Saltersbridge, Cappoquin, WATERFORD CITY. - James Palmer Graves. Esq, Waterford; Joseph B Dobbyn, Esq, Leoville, Waterford; Richard G Ridgeway, Esq, Newtown, Waterford.

THE LATE MURDER IN LIMERICK.

THE impression is stronger, that more than one person must have been engaged in the barbarous murder. Unless the police keep their own secret and throw a wet blanket upon public curiosity and interests. The person in custody, Mary McMahon, appears to be a woman of extremely cool and self possessed character. On the night of the marder when she entered her lodgings in Denmark street, she complained to the servent she was very lonely and unwell, and asked to her to sleep with her. She remained up until both went to bed. Next morning when passing through Denmark street, she stood to talk to Mrs Blake, at the corner of Market Alley, and asked her if she heard about the murder. Mrs Blake, somewhat astonished, replied she did every one was talking about it, and "you are blamed for it," said she addressing the accused. "Is it me ? said Mc-Mahon," "sure one woman would not murder another?" Mrs Blake repeated her statement and advised her so give herself up to to the police; McMahon said she would, and apparently proceeding to do so, when she was arrested by two of the Force. She was quite sober, it is said at the time, and not under the influence of drink as previously alleged. The murder, by whomsoever perpetrated, appears to have been very deliberately planned. A pair of boots belonging to the deceased were left in the warercoms near the sale, so that if Mr Corbett had not fortunately discovered the murder, he would have gone to bed, and in the morning, on finding the boots where they were, and the servent absent from the house, would prebably suppose she might have robbed him. He would not think of searching for her in the coal cellar, perhaps would not enter the underground concerns at all, having no suspicion of murder—in all probability he would rather suffer loss than make a noise about the affair The result would be the discovery of the deceased at some later period, when all clue to the assassing might be hopeless. The teeth found in the hall were not artis ficial teeth, or belonging to the accused, as at first stated; but belonged to the deceased, and probably knocked out in the struggle with her desperate assailants. The particulars of the adjourned inquest are contained in another page. plumated but for the past twenty ave year. Then, rather appearing the to the property of the toxon of the Coally delang.

froze the genial current of me delvice so he faited not even when anxiety for his fa sufferings had fatally affected his. w mother. The only sympathy which he or experienced was from the good Fathers Dominican Church, to whom his sufferin came known. Receiving, at length, a money from the Clerke Luby Fund, he : resolved to emigrate, and he left this coun America with a sore heart. He still lov land of his birth; and when quitting the he was greatly agitated. As the outline dim and were fading from view, his feeling came uncontrollable. Having taken the glimpse of Eain," he addressed the hund his countrymen who were on board, in a speech, in the course of which he stron nounced the misgovernment which exile self and them from the land of their chi The Captain, of course, was a British I and he threatened to put Mr Allen in irc he dared him to attempt it, and very pri the commander abstained. There were seven hundred Irishmen on board, who we telerate the indignity, and letters that w ceived from America at the time, stated t distinguished exile might have had control of the vessel if he wished to use had always been a strict tectotaller, and v landed in America, this characteristic we minished, and, with his natural ability requirements, helped him on. He state wards, in a letter received by his best in this city, that drink was a curse amoi countrymen. Soon after his arrival he d lectures in various parts of the United and was very successful. His great intel his knowledge of the true state of Irel native eloquence, and his unsullied truth conciliated favor wherever he went. I ried a lady of preperty, and when the a ment of certain affairs enabled him, he pi to read for the American Bar. years' severe study he succeeded, and th will be found in the following chara just been received from a member of the Dominican Order, v never fergets. His good fortune will with pleasure by numbers in this city and and we hope it is but the forerunner higher honors which he is destined to ac Springfield, Nov. 3rd, I have just passed a s and worrying examination; can you imag are my feelings at this moment? I have awors in as an Attorney and Counsello and snatch these few moments to you and to telegraph to my hope you are still in Limerick so that inform the Fathers, and now I can very w pate yout and their congratulations. I l every pulse of your and their hearts bes welfare, and that away in Ireland—three miles from here—pure and holy hearts joy at my success. You know what I know what Ireland would have made of a what she did make of me, and you what America had made of me... Which the best mother to me-Ireland or I declare I hardly know what I am sayi sure you will have a job to read it. know the cause, and can readily find an e Your grateful friend,

JONATHAN ALL: * Attorney and Connsellor and harmony control is