MIA PATRI.—In reference to the artist, who, with a talented voice, shortly appear in the Theatre, she appears in the Figaro Sketch concert singer, Mdlle Carlotta enjoyed a high reputation. Her voice, some years ago, was a success of a kind; and in London and in France, Belgium, Germany, and she had many a bouquet and round of applause. Her voice itself is a truly phenomenal voice, is extraordinary, in the higher register; indeed she is one of the few who reach the G sharp in alt with ease. Florid music is her forte, her ornaments are great, and in the more difficult of scale passages she reveals the evidence of an accomplished vocalist. Her diction from her lips becomes endowed with melody; while in the morceaux from the concert of which concert programmes are part composed, she is perfectly at home. In promenade concerts she has always been a favourite; while in the country—say, she is now touring—her popularity is great. Of her artistic merits it is not necessary to say more. By an accident of fortune, probably lost a shining star, but she is, nevertheless, rich in artistes of high rank, and the public has no cause to

Mr. Power, M.P., lectured on Thursday evening at the City Hall, Londonderry, on the "History of the Hall." The Hall was thronged, and a most enthusiastic reception was accorded to Mr. Power's address, which was delivered in a tone, was frequently applauded. He was entertained at supper at the Derry branch of the Home Guard. A large party of Cork and Blackrock were found dredging for oysters on the coast, belonging to Mr. Smith Barry. They had been apprised of what was going on at the scene, accompanied by Mr. Barry and a posse of policemen, whereupon they beat a hasty retreat. Mr. Barry's chase in a steam launch, and the fishing boats were captured before Blackrock.
