

that her son had been slain. Subsequent to the body of the ill-fated young man was found in the field, lying as he fell from the stroke. One wound showed that the bullet had entered his temple, penetrating the skull and the other that the second shot had struck through his body. Either would have been sufficient to cause instant death.

At this afternoon Major Rolleston, R.M., County Inspector Henry and several local gentlemen, have been engaged in investigating the affair, but with what result has not yet been ascertained. The funeral of the deceased will take place on Monday at two o'clock p.m. for interment in the family burial ground at Tower Hill.

TO SETTLE THE LAND QUESTION.

EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE.

SIR,—The time at my disposal for writing on the Land Question was so limited that I did not read it over before sending it for publication. I find I omitted to refer to an important matter, "Free Sale." This right I would like to see the tenant in the fullest and broadest sense of the words.—Yours, &c.

AMBROSE HALL.

THE LAND LEAGUE AGITATION.

EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE.

Nov 11, 1880.

It has for a long time seemed very strange to me that amongst the numerous able men who must be readers of your paper, has taken the trouble to compile a table of the names of the most prominent members of the Land League.

Their present rentals.

The Griffiths valuation of their several properties.

How same were acquired.

How long they have been in the families.

If by purchase, the rental at the date of purchase.

The number of evictions on each property last twenty years.

The cause of each of such evictions.

How many tenants are now on each pre-empting farms from which former tenants have been evicted.

The amount of abatement given on each property during the past five years, including the year 1880.

As you waited in vain for some months, and in despair of anyone coming forward, I am stimulated by the remarks of Colonel Dennis, at the last meeting of the Board of Guardians to allow me through the columns to call the attention of the public to these points.

I presume, the statement of Colonel Dennis published in the Dublin Daily Express of the 10th inst. is strictly accurate. I think it will be published for a week, at least, in large columns in a prominent place in every loyal paper in Ireland, and thus, by exposing the difference there is in Mr Parnell's statement of his own property and that which he claims on every other estate in Ireland, the eyes of his wretched dupes who are now misled by the reckless audacity of his promises and recommendations.—I am, sir, your obedient servant.

ANTI HUMBUS.

—As compiling such a table as I have suggested of even a dozen people, would entail a great deal of labour and considerable loss of time on every person, some one in each county, give the particulars of his county agitation about much trouble as these are generally known in the country.

A CONTRADICTION.

EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE.

SIR,—I would feel obliged by your giving reins got entangled in the bit. Mr. Ashe, who wore long spurs, placed his right hand in the animal's mane and reached forward to disentangle the bridle. Unfortunately the spurs pricked the horse's sides, and he plunged and threw his rider beyond the pommel of the saddle. At this time the music of the hounds could be distinctly heard in the distance, and the brute darted off at full gallop. Of course Mr Ashe was powerless to stop its progress. He endeavoured to regain his seat in the pommel, but in his attempt to do so only drove deeper and deeper the spurs into the animal's sides. At length becoming thoroughly exhausted he was thrown to the ground, his head coming in contact with the stone wall which was close to him. When Courvoisier was captured his sides were severely marked by the spurs, and this bears out one point in the testimony of the witness.

[BY SPECIAL TELEGRAM.]

THE MURDER OF MR. WHEELER.

The Press Association's Limerick correspondent telegraphs that Mr Wheeler, who was shot dead in the dusk of last evening by an assassin concealed behind a wall, was quite young. He was the son of a Protestant farmer of the neighbourhood, and became obnoxious because he took a farm from which a tenant had been evicted.

The crime has cast a gloom over the city and county of Limerick where the victim was well known. The coroner was to have held an inquest this afternoon. No one has as yet been arrested.

Another correspondent telegraphs that at the time the murder took place Mr Wheeler was walking with a man named Moore, who says that they had been to see Mr Lloyd on business, and when returning a shot was fired from behind the hedge. Moore ran away, but looking back saw three more shots fired by a man disguised. When found Mr Wheeler's head was much disfigured. One man is under police surveillance.

THE ORANGE VOLUNTEERS AT LOUGH MASK.

The Press Association's special correspondent telegraphs from Ballinrobe that there is considerable lull in excitement. 200 troops turned up lately unexpectedly from Claremorris. The labourers start to-day at twelve o'clock for Lough Mask House, guarded by 250 infantry and 2 squadrons of cavalry. Major Coghill's injuries will prevent him from taking command.

The troops formed this morning previous to starting for Captain Boycott's farm. The people were all at their doors and the excitement was high. It is stated that shots were fired during the night into portion of the barracks in which the Ulster men were sleeping. Crowds have been groaning and hooting outside the barrack gates. The uproar in the principal street is tremendous.

The Press Association's special correspondent with the Boycott relief expedition telegraphs from Ballinrobe this morning that during the night there has been a heavy downpour of rain which has greatly inconvenienced the labourers and men. As picketing lines have not yet arrived, the horses have been unable to lie down.
