

Harris Navigation Colliery, Pontypridd, to as the cages were in motion, the rod of engine broke, and the cylinder burst, imperiling the lives of 300 men at work in the pot. The report brought hundreds of women children to the spot, amidst great excitement. The colliers below were, however, all got a few hours by another shaft. The pit, is one of the deepest in the country, will, it is said, be idle for some months.

ARCHBISHOP OF CASHEL AND THE IRISH PARTY.

The Archbishop of Cashel has written, saying that he does not approve of the special means which the Government are said to contemplate with a view to the suppression of their sense of loyalty to Mr Gladstone. He has expressed great respect for the judgment of the Administration, and the Irish party, he is of opinion that the overwhelming majority of the Irish

On Thursday night a series of outrages were committed in the neighbourhood of Boyle, county Roscommon. The tails were cut off a large number of cattle on three grazing farms in the neighbourhood to which the Land League had prepared people not to send grazing. The police were investigating the matter, but as yet have found no clue which is likely to lead to the apprehension of the perpetrators of these outrages.

At eleven o'clock on Thursday night, an attempt was made to blow up the barracks at Chester. An explosion was effected at the back of the barracks, and upon search a black valise was found still burning at the base of the wall. A hole had been dug in the wall, and a bag filled with gunpowder had been placed in it. Very little damage, however, was done. Several men who are suspected were arrested.
