RATION GAS WORKS' REPORT.

FROM THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE. I had with no inconsiderable interest the article which appeared in the above subject, as an interested party procured the report for satisfaction. I cannot understand a vaunt is made of a "gross profit" of 19s 1d, when, by reference to the report, that unsubstantial profit is shown to be only once to an actual profit of 19s 1d. Every different aspect this same profit would wear if the £18,552 5s 1d, the value of the Watergate station, were removed: it would certainly show a loss balance to a terrible extent on the side of the book. It would show, if it were not absolutely true, that the same report which was "Capital at Watergate" above sum, coolly introduced into the Committee have served the ends of these premises." The absurdity which I observe you have drawn the attention of your readers to, and the reduction of the Improvement in the pound. If we had three years, it would make excellent annuities, and it would be interesting to find out how this would have the effect. Was not a reduction of the rate actually guaranteed the condition on which I should be glad to ask the sanction of committees. If the work
