friends announcing your start at least a week before hand or you will probably have to wait some time at the port before hearing of them. Remember that the charge in emigrant boarding-houses in New York is 4s per day, therefore have at least a little money in hand. There is no sleepi- g accommodation in Castle Garden, and food is very dear. If seeking employment go to Castle Garden Labour Bureau, not to houses in the city called Intelligence Offices; they are feeders to dens of vice in many instances. Let girls avoid making friends with strangers or sailors on board. Let them especially beware of going to boarding-houses recommended by sailors; numbers of girls are lost through this. Families going to same destination should put the names on a ticket. It prevents separation of parties at this port. Those going to different destinations should always have names on separate tickets. Emigrants should be careful to see their tickets are properly filled. For instance, if going to New York from Philadelphia this must be entered on ticket at home, or the company cannot recognize it, and emigrants will have to pay their own fares. Passengers should change their money by getting a draft at the offices in Queens- town. They cannot trust Castle Garden; still less agents outside. This house is now open to receive emigrants. I have engaged a Catholic matron especially to attend to the women, and hope not again to have to close the house.— Yours faithfully, CHARLOTTE G. O'BRIEN.

THE MACKEN MEMORIAL. TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE. SIR,—We hereby enclose collectively our individual contributions in furtherance of the above, but take occasion to express our marked regret at the insignificant limit of 5s assigned in the original suggestion; and, also, that the lists of those promoting such a movement should be relegated to a dark corner of your paper, thus obscuring the prominence in publicity which should be accorded to a purpose so desirable of accomplishment. There were, perhaps, over a thousand persons attending the funeral on this day week of as valuable, estimable, and acceptable a man as we ever had in our community; and probably double, or even treble, that number would have been present to honour his memory but for manifold preventatives, and among them especially the Assizes. All, however, have now the opportunity of doing so, though inadequately, unless a larger scheme be adopted; and it may be fairly expected from the county and city that the projected tribute shall be rendered worthy of him, who throughout half a century devoted hand and heart to the material services of both. To carry out effectively the object in view, a quorum of representative gentlemen (a dozen of such could be named in a breath) from each class and creed might form themselves into a committee, by whose spirited and judicious action the end would be signally attained.—We remain, sir, your obedient servants, FOUR OLD FRIENDS.

This is the first Spring meeting on the Ballinacorra course, and a more fortunate day could hardly be got to inaugurate the undertaking. The day was as bright and sunshiny as if it were in the very height of Summer; but at the same time there was a keen, cutting wind from the north that reminded the holiday-makers that it was bitter March and not genial June. From eleven o'clock the Military Road was thronged with holiday-makers in their gayest attire, all with their faces towards the race-course. The cars were doing a very brisk trade, and the road presented a lively and interesting appearance. The course was in first-class condition. The rain lately softened the ground a little. The course presented an animated appearance, and the vast throng was most orderly, and enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The band of the 52nd Regiment contributed largely to the success of the day.

The card was made up of five events. The racing commencing with the Ballinacorra Plate, which was won easily by the favourite. The Foxhunters' Plate resulted in an easy victory for Valse, the property of Mr H. S. Croker. Mr Dominick Murphy was on the winner, his first since his suspension 2 years ago, and rode in his usual brilliant style. The chief item on the card was the Citizens' Plate, for which seven contested, Sugar Candy being served up a warm favourite, and justified the confidence of her backers by winning by a head. This was a very well contested race, the third being only a neck behind the second. The Pony Plate was the next event, and was looked forward to with considerable interest on account of the number of local "ponies" engaged. Royal Oak ruled favourite, but was hotly pressed in the quotations by Begum, the property of that popular sportsman Capt. T. D. O'Brien. The favourite won by a length, but had not Mr Montford Gavin, who rode in brilliant form, been interfered with more than once we think Begum would have received the judge's hat. The last event on the card resulted in a neck victory for the favourite. On the whole the day was most enjoyable, racing good, fields large, and each event well contested. The committee and Mr Bryan O'Donnell may be well congratulated on the success which attended their venture on getting up a spring meeting. The band of the 52nd Oxfordshire Regiment (under the baton of Mr Richards, Bandmaster) was on the ground, and performed the following programme: Quick March, "Egypt," Le Thiere. Overture, "Semiramis," Rossini. "Reminiscences of Gounod," Godfrey. Valse, "Thine Alone," Polka "L'Esprit Francais," Waldteufel. Selection "Rip Van Winkle," Planquette. Waltz, "The Flower Show," Coote. Polka, "Whistle," Hartmann. Details:—

THE MELANCHOLY SUICIDE AT NEWCASTLE.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM OUR REPORTER.) Newcastle, Thursday Evening.

Yesterday morning this town was thrown into a state of great excitement and horror consequent on the report that Mr A. C. Sterne, Manager of the local branch of the National Bank here, had committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. For some days past two inspectors of the National Bank have been auditing the accounts, and in consequence of this fact the wildest rumours were afloat as to probable defalcations in the bank accounts and other matters. Mr A. C. Sterne has been for nine years the local Manager of the branch of the National Bank in this town, and during that period, by his courteous demeanour, amiable qualities, and kindly disposition, has earned the esteem of all classes of the community. By the Directors of the National Bank, for his uprightness and trustworthiness, he was held in the highest regard, and the public expressed sincere and heartfelt regret at his untimely demise. Mr Sterne was the son of the late Admiral Sterne, who after his retirement from the navy, resided in Dublin. He has a brother, Captain Sterne, at present in the Royal Navy. The late Mr A. C. Sterne was married to Miss MacBeth, a family well known and highly esteemed in the county of Clare. On yesterday morning Mrs. Sterne proceeded by the first train to Limerick for the purpose, it is said, of purchasing mourning in memory of a brother who had lately died. Mr. Sterne accompanied her to the Railway station here, and after bidding her an affectionate adieu returned to the Bank. Mr Sterne had the night previously dined with the two Bank Inspectors, with whom he sat until about 12 o'clock. It is stated that during the conversation that ensued the Inspectors did not notice that the deceased was affected by any melancholia, with the exception of that at moments he appeared distracted and occupied, but he was perfectly rational and had all his conversational powers. Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock Mr Devitt (Inspector) went into the bank and as he entered Mr Sterne was leaving the private office. He held two sheets of paper in his hand, and after passing the usual salutations Mr Devitt said "Sterne, will you dine with me to-night?" Mr Sterne replied "I don't think I can," and immediately he proceeded to his bed-room, the door of which he locked. This apartment adjoins the nursery, where a servant was occupied arranging some trinkets. In about half an hour afterwards this woman heard the report of a shot, but thinking that it was only the usual report of the firearms of a gentleman who usually practised pistol-shooting in the bank garden she took no notice; but subsequently, not noticing Mr Sterne issuing from his room, she became suspicious that all was not right, and she went down to inquire if Mr Sterne was in the bank. On being informed that he was not, she told what she heard to a servant in the bank, named Cullinan, who, with some others, immediately proceeded upstairs, and found that the door of his master's apartment was locked from the inside. He endeavoured to force the door, but failed, and then went for a chisel. In the meantime a pencil was put into the lock and the key forced into the room. Another key was then inserted and the door opened, when a most horrifying spectacle met their gaze. On the bed lay the body of Mr Sterne, with a large bullet wound in his left temple, into which four fingers could easily be inserted, and from which the life blood flowed copiously. The features were calm and placid, no evidence of pain or distortion being apparent. The left hand was extended to right angles from the body, while the right hand lay over the region of the heart. His coat was open, and between the coat and the body lay a six-chambered revolver, with the muzzle pointing towards the head—a position demonstrating that after the suicide the pistol must have fallen from the hand and dropped to where it was found. There were five chambers of the pistol loaded with revolver ball-cartridge, and one recently discharged. The servants at once gave the alarm, and Dr. O'Shaughnessy, of Newcastle, was called in, but life was extinct. On the dressing-table in the room were found two letters—one addressed to his wife and the other to Mr Devitt, the inspector of the bank. This sad occurrence was at once reported to Head-constable O'Connor who immediately went to the scene, when the revolver was handed to him by Dr. O'Shaughnessy. In endeavouring to unload the five undischarged chambers, the Head-constable found some difficulty, which shows that the weapon had been loaded for some lengthened period. Mr Coroner Sheehy, being in town, an inquest on the body was held yesterday, at two o'clock. The following jury were sworn:—Messrs. George L. Sheehy (foreman), Michael McCoy, P. D. Moylan, James Sheehy, P. R. Shaughnessy, John Murphy, Thomas Roche, James Brooder, John Liston, Mathew Mahony, and Michael Dooly.

Evidence as to the finding of the body having been given, portion of the letter written to Mr Devitt was read by that gentleman. It commenced "MY DEAR FRIEND,"— [Part of the contents were not publicly read, but the following was read to the jury:] "Before this reaches you I will be no more. I have suffered deeply by being allured into transactions which I should have shunned. My poor wife knows nothing of it. I hope you will be a friend to my wife and children, and that my brother, the Captain, will also see after their interests. I have experienced great suffering, and I hope you will never feel anything approaching mine. I am perfectly mad.—Believe me, yours sincerely,

"A. C. STERNE." The jury found the following verdict:—"That A. C. Sterne came by his death at Newcastle on the 14th March, 1883. From the evidence before us, we are of opinion that his death was caused by a revolver wound through his head, which was inflicted while in a state of temporary insanity." After the inquest Mr Cullen, the Cashier of the National Bank here, with some lady friends, proceeded by the evening train to Limerick to break to Mrs Sterne, in the mildest possible manner, the news of her husband's decease. The inspectors are still auditing the accounts in the bank, and the public feel great uneasiness on the subject. I called at the bank here this evening for the purpose, if authorised, of giving an emphatic denial or otherwise to the rumours that are afloat as to the state of the accounts of the bank, but Mr Devitt (Inspector) "was too busy," and therefore I cannot give the contradiction so ardently desired by the public regarding the vague rumours afloat.

The number of emigrants who left the Irish ports last year was 89,566, being an increase of 10,847. The emigrants were distributed as follows:—16,057 from Beluster, 23,843 from ... 29,457 from Tilster, 18,150 from Cou-

... officers) had got passes from the railway company; so that, with the exception of their hotel expenses, the Board would have to pay no additional expenses.

Mr Riordan—Is it a fact that one of the emigrants returned to Limerick? Alderman Myles—There was one, but not one of the number we sent. She was refused by the doctor on board the ship. The matter then dropped. The Master stated that a man named Torrens who had been sent over from Scotland to the hospital here some time ago had left the workhouse, and he (the master) wished to know would the Board take any further proceedings in the case? Alderman Myles—I don't think it is necessary.

The Clerk announced that he had issued advertisements for green middles for the inmates' Easter dinner. Alderman Myles—I observed an advertisement in the Chronicle last night— Mr Gaffney—For what? Alderman Myles—For green middles; and your name is to it too, Mr Wilson. There is a dispute about the matter, you're aware. Did you send the advertisement? Mr Wilson—I never sent it to the Chronicle. Alderman Myles—You had better state that it did not come from your office. Mr Wilson—Yes, I have put it on the minutes that it did not.

Chairman—It would be well to put it on the minutes that the attention of the Board having been called to it, the clerk stated that he gave no directions to have the advertisement inserted. Of course if the Limerick Chronicle chose to insert advertisements gratuitously that is their own business. The chairman's suggestion was adopted. Mr P. Moloney said he wished to state that in the Bridgetown Division, which he represented, and which was to be contested at the coming election, a notice having reference to him, which he wished to read, was posted on the chapel gate. The notice referred to the heavy rates paid in the division by reason of the large amount which was unnecessary expended in out-door relief; and further stated that this state of things was brought about through the action of the guardian at present representing the division. Mr Moloney said that the notice was incorrect, and that Mr Studdert was the author of it, as he was doing everything in his power to secure the return of his (Mr Moloney's) opponents.

Mr Wilson, in answer to Mr Moloney, said he had given Mr Studdert a list of the amounts expended on out-door relief in the division. The chairman hoped their confidence in Mr Moloney by returning him as their representative for the ensuing year. Ald Myles—Was there any signature to this document, Mr Moloney? Mr Moloney—There was not. Mr Gaffney—That being the case I don't see why Mr Studdert's name should be brought into the matter. It is very unfair to be attacking a man behind his back. The matter ended.

Arising out of the Finance Committee's report, Alderman Myles referred to the large amount of outstanding rates, and said he thought the board should take some action in the matter. The Chairman remarked that as the rate collectors did not seem to pay much attention to the orders of the board, the better way would be to notice their sureties. After considerable discussion, the chairman's suggestion was adopted, and it was agreed to notice the sureties of Messrs Brennan, Hartigan, and Harris.

There were three tenders for the supply of green middles, viz.—Mr Spain, 66s per cwt; Peter McCormack, 67s, and John O'Mara, 65s 6d. Mr Gaffney—I believe there is no fear of a "ring" (laughter). There is nothing but rings now. Mr O'Mara's tender was accepted. The following letter was read:—"Local Government Board, Dublin, 18th March, 1883.

"SIR,—The Local Government Board for Ireland have had before them the resolution of the Board of Guardians of Limerick Union, of the 21st ultimo, relating to the surcharge of £60 7s made by the auditor, Mr Pelly, at his recent audit of the Union accounts, and the Board desire to state that having communicated the Guardian's resolution to Mr Pelly, they have received his reply, an extract from which is transmitted herewith. The Board concur with Mr Pelly in thinking that the exceptional circumstances of the case justify the course which he proposes to adopt.—By order of the Board, "W. D. WOODSWORTH, Secretary.

"To the Clerk, Limerick Union." EXTRACT REFERRED TO. "There was no question raised before me as to the non-destination of any of the cases relieved in this instance, and judging from the particulars recorded in each case on the application and report book of the Relieving Officer, as well as the information which he verbally afforded me on the occasion of the audit, the Guardians would be appearing to me, acting on similar information, to have been legally warranted in affording relief to those persons under the 11th and 12th Vic. cap. 47, so that the only question which it became my duty to consider was the extent of the relief so afforded.

"Undoubtedly the amount granted in each case, of 4s a head weekly, was largely in excess of the sums usually allowed for the relief of ordinary destitution in this Union, under Sec. 1 of 10 Vic. cap. 81; and was in my opinion beyond the actual necessities of the case, and hence I felt bound to reduce it to what I considered a very reasonable limit, viz., 3s a week for each individual. "As to the statement regarding the cost of lodgings in those cases, the Relieving Officer was unable to afford me any information to guide me on this point, so I think it right to say that in measuring the amount of relief I made no allowance under this head in any case. "I quite agree with the resolution of the Guardians to this extent, that the circumstances under which the relief was afforded were of an unprecedented and exceptional character; and I have been assured by the guardians who authorised the relief, as well as by the Chairman of the Board, that they believed at the time of authorising it that they were acting within their legal powers, under 11 & 12 Vic. cap. 47, and in the bona fide discharge of an imperative duty; otherwise they would not have so acted.

"Under these extenuating circumstances I would be unwilling to take proceedings for the recovery of the surcharge, if my action in this direction meets your approval." Alderman Myles said he thought they ought to thank Mr Pelly and the Local Government Board for the manner in which they had acted. This was unanimously agreed to. DEPORTATION OF PAUPERS. The following petition, which was transmitted to the Local Government Board, was received—

"SIR,—The Local Government Board for Ireland have had under consideration the resolution of the Board of Guardians of the Ennis Union of the 21st ultimo, applying to have the Union scheduled under the provisions of the 20th section of the Arrarars of Rent (Ireland) Act, 1838, together with the particulars since required; and the Board desire to state that having recommended to the Lord Lieutenant the scheduling of the Electoral Divisions of Ennis, Furber, Killeghy, Killaniff, and Kanturk; His Excellency has approved of these divisions being added to the 2nd schedule of the Act. The Local Government Board on carefully considering the circumstances of the other Electoral Divisions of the Union, with the particulars furnished with the return forwarded, did not feel justified in including these divisions in the schedule. The Local Government Board think it right to state that the Board of Guardians in considering the question of persons to be assisted to emigrate, must not rely upon the maximum grant of £5 being allowed per head in every electoral division, as the sum must depend on the circumstances of each of the divisions scheduled. The Board will, however, address the Guardians again with respect to the grant per each person which will be made in the scheduled divisions. Two copies of the rules framed under the 21st section of the Act, and a copy of the Board's circular of the 2nd instant, are enclosed for the Guardians' information.—By order of the Board, "W. D. WOODSWORTH, Secretary.

"To the Clerk of Ennis Union." Among the applications for assistance to emigrate to Canada, was one from a Mrs Alloway, wife of a process-server. Mr Mongovan (a guardian)—We should grant them assistance. I suppose there are writs to be served there, and we would have got rid of a nuisance by helping them. Consideration of application deferred. The Board shortly afterwards adjourned.
