

street Barracks. A charge field, revolvers being freely were pursued into a house, and found. A very serious affair, throwing his rider to the Crescent Barracks the Dragoon, amidst a shower of missiles was admitted to the lacerated wounds and fractured by stones.

AT TANTAH, IN EGYPT.—The incident of the Vienna Politische that the annual market or fair deserved its usual epithet more fully than this year, when, as is estimated, it was attended by 10,000 persons. They were accommodated in private houses and in the erection of 8,000 large tents, which for the most part were kept two metres apart, thus forming vast parallel alleys being continuously scavenged by a corps of sanitary police. All the tents were closed each day for two hours, being thoroughly cleansed and the cattle brought to market and the men were inspected daily, and a special inspection also of certain articles at the fair. Thanks to these measures the mortality during the fair was less than usual.

RICK CHRONICLE.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1886

The second reading of Mr. St. John's Relief Bill was moved in the House of Commons, and there can be little doubt that the hopes of the supporters of the Bill of its ever becoming law, even in its present form, are very much most propitious, and the day was altogether most enjoyable. A full account will appear in our next issue.

An ordination will be held in St Mary's Cathedral on the 29th of this month by the Lord Bishop of Killaloe, acting on behalf of the Lord Bishop of Limerick. The Bishop of Killaloe will also hold a series of confirmation in the Diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe, also on behalf of the Lord Bishop of Limerick.

Dromcollogher Fair was held on Saturday. Owing to the harvesting operations the attendance of stock-holders was not very large. Prices did not show any advance on recent quotations. The following were current:—Weanling calves, £2 to £3; year and a-half olds, £4 to £5; beef cows, £9 to £14; bulls, £5 to £9; sheep, 30s to 50s; lambs, 20s to 30s; bonhams, 20s to 34s.

We regret to announce the death of Mr Whittaker, gun-smith, Ellen-street, which took place on Saturday evening after a short illness. Mr Whittaker was a respected citizen and a successful trader, and his premature demise has caused much regret amongst the large circle of friends with whom he was associated. Yesterday the remains of the deceased were removed from his late residence to St Munchin's churchyard for interment, the funeral cortege including a large number of citizens. The Rev Guard Price, Wesleyan Church, officiated at the grave.

A few days since as Constable Patrick Stacy, of Tipperary, was on duty in the Main-street he noticed a man wearing plain clothes, but of a superior quality, and also patent leather boots. It appears that when he challenged him the man ran away, and Constable Stacy following in hot pursuit, came up with him and took him into custody. It has transpired that the prisoner was a soldier from Templemore, and was "wanted" on a charge of having broken into the officers' quarters and taken away a suit of clothes, a silver cigar case, and other articles. A military escort came from Templemore on Thursday and brought away the accused, who will be dealt with by his own authorities.

Misses Rose and May Bowdler (the groom), and Misses Flossy and Nellie Dallimore (nieces of the bride) and the two little nephews of the bride as pages. Among the other guests to be described is that of the bride, which was of black velvet trimmed with white. As soon as the wedding party entered the Church the marriage ceremony commenced, the officiating clergyman being J H Townsend, Vicar, the Rev Rector of Wareham, and the Rev Vicar of Halvergate, Norfolk, officiating as the bride's father. The service was a simple one, the choir being in attendance and singing the usual festal hymns in the conclusion of the ceremony. The bride was expressively played for by the wedding guests assembled at the reception, where a reception was being supplied by Mr W. J. Wells, confectioner, of the Royal Exchange, who also handsome cake, supplied by Busza, was cut by the bride with a silver band. It was somewhat late (4.30) when the newly-wedded pair started on their honeymoon journey. The bride's dress was of grey cashmere velvet and hat to match. The bride's trousseau, which was being spent in Scotland, and the happy pair will remain in Scotland, which they will return to on the 14th of next month. Bombay. It may be a present were very numerous, and included many of esteem and respect entered into by her friends. The bridal presents, which were supplied by the dairymen, High-street, Templemore, and the brides' and bridesmaids' dresses were supplied by Redmayne's, Bond-street. Gazette.
