GLADSTONE AND MR PARNELL.—The Press ion states that at the dinner given by instead to Mr Gladstone and the labour s on Tuesday night, Mr Gladstone, t to the toast of his health, ridiculed the t Mr Parnell should have written such a s that published in the Times. His cor-lence with Mr Parnell had been of an ely limited character. In point of fact he ver in his whole life received but one rom the Irish leader. The document in n was written four years ago under cirnces of unusual importance. He had o refrained from referring to it, but its ts threw considerable light on the topic of ur, and was strong evidence in favour of ntion that the Times' letter was a base, alicious forgery. As soon as the facts in tion with the Phoenix Park murders were hed, Mr Parnell, apparently foreseeing that public mind he would be associated with ime, wrote a letter placing himself and his conduct unreservedly in Mr Gladstone's The tone of Mr Parnell's letter was such e evidently regarded the murders with the st abhorrence, and he offered, if Mr Glad-after consideration of the circumstances ht such a step desirable, to retire altogether his leadership of the party and from cal life. The right hon gentleman did not ss an opinion as to the letter in question or the nature of his reply. The Press Associastates that Mr Gladstone will take no part e debate on the Crimes Bill.
