NENAGH WORKHOUSE MEAT CONTRACT.

The Nenagh Guardians have succeeded in lowering the contract price of beef from 9 1/2d to 8 1/2d per lb.

Eggs and Butter.—Mr James Hogan received the contract for supplying eggs during the winter at 1 1/2d per dozen and butter at 8 1/2d per lb.

Flour.—Mr J. R. Webb, Mallow, obtained the contract for the supply of flour at £12 7s 6d per ton.

Oatmeal.—Mr Thomas Boland, of Ballinacough Mills, was declared contractor for the supply of oatmeal at 4 10s 6d per ton.

Mr Wm. Kennedy, Nenagh, obtained the contracts for cocoa at 9d per stone; whole pepper, 9 1/2d per lb; washing soda, 3s 9d; soft sugar, 2d per lb; starch, 2 1/2d per lb; blue, 3d per lb; soda water, 1s 4d per dozen; lemonade, 1s 1d per dozen;  Brandy, 5s 3d per bottle; crown soap 16s per cwt.

Mr Michael McMahon was declared contractor for petroleum oil at 6 1/2d per gallon, and lump salt at 3s per cwt.

THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD CALL FOR THE DISMISSAL OF A RELIEVING OFFICER.

At the last meeting of the Nenagh Guardians, Mr P. J. O'Brien, M.P., chairman, presiding, a communication was received from the Local Government Board stating that they had received the report of their Inspector, Mr E. Bourke, relating to an inquiry held recently into the manner in which Mr. Matthew M'Grath, one of the relieving officers of the union, had been discharging his duties.

The Local Government Board stated that having carefully considered the facts of the case elicited at the inquiry, they had come to the conclusion that although there was not evidence to show that he misappropriated any of the money entrusted to him for the relief of the sick poor, his books and the evidence given at the inquiry afforded ample proof that he had not been in the habit of distributing relief or visiting the 100s electoral division with regularity, and that in order to conceal this fact from the Clerk of the Union and the guardians he had adopted the custom of making false entries in his relief list.

Such a course of action could not admit of any excuse, and having regard to the fact that similar charges were proved against Mr M'Grath at an inquiry on oath held in September, '89, and to the letters addressed to the guardians on the 23rd of that month, and the 23rd of October last, the Local Government Board said they should request the guardians to call on Mr M'Grath for his resignation of the office of relieving officer.

After some discussion, the following minute was made on the subject: "The guardians on this last occasion ventured to ask the Local Government Board to reconsider their decision regarding the calling upon the relieving officer M'Grath to send in his resignation. The guardians have very carefully looked into the evidence, and there is not a shadow of ground for assuming that he misappropriated a single penny of the funds of the union. It is admitted that he was not as punctual as he should have been in attending at the different stations, but taking into account the great extent of the district he has had to traverse weekly in a mountainous locality—the uncertainty on some occasions of the recipients attending at the depots, the messengers. The lesson he has now been taught will, the guardians feel convinced, be effectual in causing him to more strictly adhere to the discharge of his duties, and under the circumstances the guardians trust that the Local Government Board will not refuse to give him one more and the last trial. Latterly he has been most assiduous in discharging the duties, and is giving entire satisfaction."

CHARGE OF FIRING AT A GAMEKEEPER.

A young man named Dempsey, who is for many years in the hardware establishment of Mrs M. Cahill, Nenagh, has been tried at the Lorrha Petty Sessions, on Monday, before Major Waring (in the chair), Mr John O'Meara, and Mr J. D. Dwyer, on a charge of having, with other men unknown, fired at a gamekeeper, named Abbott, in the employment of Mr A. F. C. Tollemache, with intent to do him serious bodily harm, at Lorrha, on Sunday evening, the 14th of this month.

Dempsey had been in custody in Birr bridewell from the time of his arrest on Sunday until his trial five days subsequently. He was defended by Mr M. Gleeson, solr. Nenagh. Head Constable Sweeney, Borrisokane, represented the Crown; in the absence of District Inspector Davis, who was engaged on special duty in Tipperary. The deposition of Abbott was read as follows:—I live at Lorrha, and am caretaker of part of the lands of Lorrha, the property of A. F. C. Tollemache, Esq. On the 14th of Sept. I was out on the lands and saw a greyhound, and on looking over a ditch I saw two men; they had guns in their hands; they were on the lands of Mr Tollemache; I saw Joseph Dempsey, whom I now identify, step out from the other man and present the gun at me and fire two shots in succession; the shot fell on me, he was about 100 yards away; when the shots were fired there were three men there; one of them ran away; that man had no gun; neither of the three men spoke to me, nor did I speak to them; I crossed the field to the barracks and heard two more shots fired.

Sergeant Lord deposed to his having arrested the prisoner close to the scene of the occurrence, whither he had been accompanied by Constables Mallon and Abbott. Dempsey had a double-barrelled gun when taken into custody, which he got at the house of a neighbouring farmer named Breveron.

In answer to Mr Gleeson, Abbott admitted that he might have been 160 yards away when the shots were fired. It might have been that the shots were fired at a rabbit, and that Dempsey did not see witness at all.

The Chairman said there was a doubt that the shots were fired at the gamekeeper, and the prisoner would get the benefit of the doubt. He was accordingly discharged.

He will be prosecuted by the Excise authorities for carrying the gun without a license.

The Queen of Roumania left Kingstown yesterday morning for a visit to Queen Victoria at Balmoral.

The Observer states that Mr Sims Reeves has resolved to commence teaching private and professional students of voice formation and singing. It is his intention to establish himself in the West End of the metropolis, and he proposes to begin his operations in February next.

The men employed at Calder ironworks refused to start work yesterday morning, because the masters had posted a notice on Saturday intimating that all engagements would cease on the 4th of October. Three furnaces were consequently blown out, and the Glasgow iron market is excited and strong this forenoon.

MR. RITCHIE TO VISIT IRELAND.—Mr Ritchie left town last night for Scotland, whence he proceeds on a visit to Ireland. He will return from the latter country in time to fulfil a series of engagements at Manchester on the 16th and 17th inst.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. MULHALLAN.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Much regret is expressed in the county Limerick and elsewhere at the very sudden death of Mr. Mulhallan Marum, M.P. for Co. Kilkenny, which took place at Listowel on Sunday last. While attending twelve o'clock Mass the gentleman was seized with an attack of heart disease, and after being removed to the police barracks, he expired while the sanitary arrangements being rectified by the Rev. Mr. Barton, C.C., Drs. Dillon and Clancy, Mr. G. M. Elligott, J.P., and District Inspector Hicks conveyed the deceased there.

It would appear that Mr. Marum had arrived in town by the morning mail from Limerick, with the object of addressing a meeting which was convened at his request for the purpose of forwarding the interest of co-operative dairying amongst the farmers of the locality. It may here be remarked that he took a great interest in the dairy system, and on last Sunday week addressed a meeting on this subject at Castlemahon, county Limerick. Posters were published announcing the intended meeting at Listowel, and stating that addresses would be delivered by Mr. Marum and the Hon. Horace Plunkett, Chairman of the Irish Section of the Co-operative Union. A platform had been erected, and all the arrangements in connection with the meeting had been completed, but owing to the lamentable occurrence it was, of course, abandoned. After arriving at the station, the deceased was driven to Mr. Elligott's Hotel, where Mr. Plunkett, who had arrived on Saturday night, awaited him. Having partaken of breakfast he proceeded to the residence of Mr. John Stack, M.P., of whom he made some inquiries regarding the prospect of the meeting, and remarked that so anxious was he for its success that he had come down all the way from Kilkenny in the midst of the storm to be present at it. He then inquired the way to the parish church, and departed to make some preparations for Mass, which was to commence at 12 o'clock. He left the hotel in apparently good health, and proceeded to the church, which is situated in the square close to the hotel. He took a seat in one of the front pews of the gallery, and being unknown to the other occupants of the pews in the immediate vicinity, did not attract any particular attention until about the post-Communion, when he was seen by a lady who was seated in an adjoining pew to pass his hand across his forehead, as if suffering from a passing spasm. Almost immediately he fell between the pews, his right eyebrow coming in contact with the back of the pew in front, or with the step, as a result of which, a contusion, from which a small quantity of blood issued, was made over the right eye. The noise made by the fall attracted the attention of the occupants of the adjoining pews, and Dr. John Dillon, J.P., who was seated near, immediately hastened to render what medical assistance he could under the circumstances. Dr. John Clancy, who, with Mr. Stack, M.P., was seated at the back of the gallery near the choir, also joined Dr. Dillon, and between them, with the assistance of Mr. G. M. Elligott, J.P., District Inspector Hicks, R.I.C., and other gentlemen, removed the unconscious gentleman out into the open air, and from thence to the police barracks, which is close to the church, and laid him in the day-room. The medical gentlemen then made an examination, and pronounced life to be extinct. In the meantime the Rev. P. Barton, C.C., arrived, and proceeded to rectify the office for the dying; and Mr. Stack stated that the deceased during the ceremony gave a deep sigh, and then peacefully breathed his last. From the moment of the attack to the expiration was something less than five minutes. The medical men having declared life extinct, the remains were laid out on one of the tables in the day-room. They were subsequently removed on a stretcher by four constables to the hotel, where they were placed in a shell coffin pending the inquest and the arrival of the relatives of the deceased.

The said occurrence is the subject of universal and sympathetic discussion, and sincere condolence is expressed for the relatives of the deceased in this sad and unexpected affliction.

At the inquest yesterday Dr. Dillon deposed that death resulted from heart disease, and a verdict to that effect was returned.

A Kilkenny correspondent writes that, unlike a good many of his Parliamentary colleagues, Mr. Marum did not take much part in furthering the Plan of Campaign. His sole object seemed to be to look after the interests of his constituents, without exhibiting any partiality to any class or creed. The Conservatives of the county respected him as much as the Nationalists, and with few exceptions he was popular with every person in this city, where his death creates regret sincere and unfeigned. As an example of the zeal he took in promoting the welfare of the poor of this county, he a few days ago addressed a letter to Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, M.P., urging him to do something for the poor of the district. Great sympathy is felt for the deceased gentleman's wife and family, who were greatly shocked when the news of the occurrence arrived. As a magistrate the bench loses in him one of its most able and impartial members, and as a politician his loss will be greatly felt both by the members of the Irish Parliamentary party and by the electors of North Kilkenny, whom he represented both in and out of Parliament for the past ten years faithfully and well. The deceased gentleman was a nephew of the late Bishop Moran.

DREADFUL TRAGEDY IN WICKLOW.

Wicklow, Monday.

Intelligence arrived here to-day that a man named William Jones, holding a farm of some sixty acres under Lord Fitzwilliam, and residing at Babans, midway between Glenealy and Rathdrum, made a deliberate attempt to poison his wife and family of five children. It was also stated Jones had poisoned himself while under arrest. A visit to the scene of the tragedy proved that the information was substantially correct. It would appear that Jones, who was only 26 years of age, had been for some time disturbed mentally over family matters. A few years ago he became dissatisfied with his progress, and displayed a spirit of unfriendliness towards his father-in-law, with whom he had an altercation respecting his wife's dowry. Subsequently his actions revealed the fact that he was suffering from intermittent attacks of insanity but still the wife, although questioned on the subject, stated that she was not apprehensive of him. This morning, when the family, consisting of his wife, five children, and his brother-in-law, had been at breakfast a few minutes, and had actually partaken of some of the food, Jones suddenly rose from the table and exclaimed: "You are all poisoned; you won't have my place, as you thought would." Mrs. Jones at once told the children not to continue their breakfast, and then her husband left the room, and seizing a billhook, went outside into the yard where a labourer named Mates was working. Approaching him from behind, he struck him on the head a violent blow with the weapon, which penetrated the skull. The unfortunate man fell down unconscious, and Jones, having made an attempt to assault another workman, who, however, succeeded in escaping, went out on the farm. His brother-in-law then went to Mr. Lawrence, who lived near by, and told him of the occurrence, and thereupon information was at once sent to the police at Rathdrum. Mr. Lawrence and a workman proceeded to where Jones was on the farm and entered into conversation with him awaiting the arrival of the police. The latter, having procured the assistance of Dr. Leeper, drove to the place, and while Constables M. Williams, Redmond, and Clifford were in search of Jones, Sergeant Byrne and Dr. Leeper had the injured man conveyed to Rathdrum workhouse hospital, where he now lies in a very precarious condition. Dr. Leeper, having examined Mrs. Jones and the children, was of opinion that they had taken none of the poison. The various articles of food were examined, and a small quantity of which had been used in SHOCKING TRAGEDY IN WALES. William Evans, 33, wheelright, attempted to murder his wife, and afterwards committed suicide, at Cardiff, yesterday morning. The neighbours heard screams, and Mrs. Evans appeared at the door bleeding from wounds in the throat and head. Some men having entered, Evans rushed at them, and when they drew back he returned to the kitchen and cut his throat fatally. The woman is in a precarious state.

THE DISTRESS. To-day's Standard says—Those who are officially responsible for the conduct of Irish affairs, and who enjoy the full confidence of a majority of the English and Scotch people in their policy, recognise that there has been within a certain limited area a failure of the potato harvest, which forms a painful contrast to the abundant yield of other crops elsewhere. The possibility of local distress has not only been admitted, but has been allowed for. It is only the perpetual problem of the congestion of population on all but hopeless soil presenting itself in a splendid phase. Mr. Balfour had prepared in the Land Bill of last session a far-reaching scheme for reducing and finally eradicating the evil, and if Mr. Dillon's English allies had not practised a pitiless obstruction it would be now in operation. But, not satisfied with having drafted the plan of permanent relief, Mr. Balfour took timely measures to meet the temporary difficulty.

THE POTATO OUT OF PLACE IN IRELAND. Amateur Gardening, in the course of a descriptive account of the condition of the potato crop in Ireland, offers the opinion that "the humid climate of Ireland is not suited to the growth of the potato, except in favoured seasons, and hence this is why we strongly urge the Irish peasantry to grow fewer potatoes, and more of such useful vegetables as parsnips, peas, and beans in due succession. Those who can afford it might of course grow onions, carrots, and vegetable
