 Mr Mackenzie resumed yesterday morning the revision of the voters' lists for Deptford at the Vestry Offices, Tanners-hill. Messrs Seagar, Rhodes, and Hall for the Liberals. James Whitworth, 104, Pomeroy-street, Hatcham, claimed as occupier, but told the Barrister that he was a lodger, paying rent to his wife, who had taken the house in her own name. The Barrister said he could not understand how the claimant could be a lodger of his wife's, and asked him if he occupied the same bed-room as she did. The claimant said he believed he did. The Barrister said a lodgment meant the sole occupation of a room; and he did not see that Mr Whitworth had a claim of any sort. He could not allow the name to be upon the list.
