

state of the funds of the Diocese not disclose a satisfactory state of there. He points out a total excess over income amounting to £1,527. In a similar financial condition was Professor Galbraith, but a reduction in income has failed to restore financial equilibrium. Dr Traill points out that the fund only increased by £1,424 in the year, about the amount voted by the Synod during that period in aid of the diocese. "The result of all this is," says Dr Traill, "that whilst the commutation of the Stipend Fund is practically necessary, it should have been still increased by an amount at least equal to the diminution of the commutation fund. A remedy Dr Traill suggests is an increase of 500 per annum on the assessments on compounders, the cutting of the tax on deans and archdeacons, or the raising of a special fund to produce £1,500 per annum."

THE LATE MR. E. L. WICKHAM.

In our last issue appeared the announcement of the demise of the above-named gentleman, which took place at his residence, Osmington Terrace, on Monday morning, at the ripe age of 75 years. Mr. Wickham, who was second surviving son of the late Captain John Wickham, J.P., (17th Regiment) Madboy House, County Limerick, was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends in this city and district. Possessing a kind-hearted and genial manner, he was respected by all with whom he came in contact during the long span of years which Providence was pleased to allot to him; and it need hardly be said that in his own domestic circle, he was beloved and held in the most affectionate regard by every member of his family. We deeply sympathise with them in their bereavement—a feeling which is shared in by all who enjoyed the acquaintance, no matter how slight, of the late Mr Wickham. Yesterday morning the interment took place at St Munchin's Church, and notwithstanding the earliness of the hour—eight o'clock—the cortege was of a large and most representative character. The funeral service was read in the Church, where the deceased had so long worshipped, by the Rev Dr Clarke, Rector, who, in the course of some impressive observations, took occasion to refer to the many excellent traits of character which Mr Wickham possessed. Several handsome wreaths sent by friends were placed on the grave. The chief mourners were—Mr Eugene A. Wickham, Drs De Lacy and Charles Wickham, and Mr William Wickham, sons, with Mr John Ayre, son-in-law, and Master David Ayre, grandson of the deceased.

THEATRE ROYAL.

THE ARABIAN NIGHTS.

Last evening Mr Norman's Company opened a three night's engagement in the Theatre Royal. The house was one of those which is witnessed only on rare occasions, every portion of it being well-filled, a fact which bore out the high reputation which preceded the Company from the other places in which they have appeared. The piece produced was the farcical comedy of The Arabian Nights, which has met with success in every part of the provinces since its first appearance. The piece is an exceedingly clever one, and differs from most comedies in the fact that it possesses but little comedy, while all the ele-
