

1, out of spite, burn and destroy them! The ring of the hay at Boher is an impious, ren-defying act—out of the common run of—and the sooner the community clear themselves and punish the perpetrator of it, the better they be for themselves.

1 consequence of the continued fine weather, in order to convenience the numerous visitors, Eagle Hotel, Lisdoonvarna, will remain open 1st November.

aking advantage of the fine weather with which we have been favoured during the past weeks, a very large number of visitors are enjoying the bracing air and the scenery of Lybunion.

Miss Ada Rehan, the well-known Irish actress Augustin Daly's Company, is captivating London audiences by her acting of the rather extravagant role of the Russian Baroness in "The Word." Miss Rehan is a Limerick lady by birth.

It is announced that Mr Frederick G. Kerin, retired from the Solicitorship of the Ennis Commission, and for the vacancy several candidates are mentioned, amongst them being Messrs W. Healy, Cecil Minikin, and E. J. Feehan.

Mr Alexander Lane, B.L., Revising Barrister, resumed the business of the revision to-day. The court will sit this evening for the purpose of trying claims, and the business will terminate Monday evening. Very little interest is manifested in the proceedings.

On Wednesday a small cock of hay maliciously burned on Mrs Frend's farm, Temple-moore. This lady has served notice of her intention of applying for £650, compensation for the hay, which was maliciously burned on the 1st inst, and it is stated an indignation meeting to be held in the locality to condemn the incendiarism.

ST JOHN'S CHURCH.—The Rev F. Langbridge is now preaching on alternate Sunday evenings, a short series of sermons on the Book of Common Prayer. The second of the series will (D.V) be preached to-morrow, September 27th.

LEAMY SCHOOL.—This afternoon the past and present pupils of Leamy's presented their headmaster with an address and handsome field-glass. The headmaster, in thanking his boys, congratulated them on their creditable display at the summer Examinations of the Intermediate Board and Science and Art Department.

REVISION COURTS IN CLARE.—The revision of parliamentary voters lists for Clare will take place next month. Courts will be held at Talloe and Sixmile-bridge on the 2nd October; Kilrush on the 14th; at Ennistymon on the 16th; at Ballyvaughan on the 20th; at Tulla on the 21st; at Ennis on the 23rd, and at Kildysart on the 24th.

THE ATHENEUM QUADRILLE CLASS.—Arrangements being now almost complete in connection with this Class for the season, the Committee desire to be able to announce in a few days when the first night's dance will take place. This season promises to be of unusual interest, as "great things" are expected from the gentlemen who have taken the management of affairs in their hands.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—The engine attached to the 11 a.m. train from Tralee to Limerick acci-

... highly appreciated by the public. It is written for a most deserving cause—in aid of the fund for the completion of the Father Matthew Memorial Church at Cork, and Mr Nunan is deserving of much credit, for this the latest addition to his musical works. He is the composer of the "Flowing Tide March," "Bells of Shandon Polka," "Cork Exhibition Waltzes," and other attractive pieces.

BALLYNEETY PETTY SESSIONS.—These sessions were held on Thursday before Mr John Russell, Mr H.S. Croker, and Mr J. G. Kelly. Charles Ahern was charged with having seriously assaulted John Murnane at Cahirconlish on the 20th ult. Particulars of this case have been already published. As Ahern expressed regret for the injury he had done, and had given the injured man £5 compensation, he was fined one penny and 6s costs. Sergeant Ayre charged George Flanagan with having been drunk and disorderly at Cahirconlish on Sunday the 20th inst. It being the defendant's third offence within 12 months, and having received a bad character from the sergeant, he was sentenced to one month's imprisonment with hard labour. After the hearing of a few unimportant cases, the court adjourned.

DEATH OF MASTER ROBERT BREW WIDDESS.

His many friends have heard with much regret of the death of Master Robert Brew Widdess, which took place on Thursday evening last, after a long and patiently borne illness. The deceased, who was only in his seventeenth year, was a son of the late Mr Widdess, of the Probate Office, Limerick. He was a very talented young fellow as a musician, and gave promise of a bright future. He, on some occasions, presided at the organ in St John's and Castleconnell Churches, and was for several years a member of the choir of St Mary's Cathedral, where he was beloved by his young friends, many of whom stood over his open grave this morning. Possessing a gentle, retiring manner, he won the good will and esteem of all who knew him, young and old, and his death is deeply lamented. The interment took place at St. Munchin's, the officiating clergyman being the Dean of Limerick. The Service being partly choral, was sung by the boys of St. Mary's, under the direction of Mr Muspratt, who presided at the organ. On the coffin being borne into the Church, "Oh, rest in the Lord" (Elijah) was played. The 90th Psalm, "Lord, Thou hast been our Refuge," was sung to Purcell's chant, and the hymn selected was "Jesus, Lives." As the coffin was being taken to its last resting place, the Dead March was played. Messrs John M. and H. Widdess, brothers of the deceased, were chief mourners, and a considerable number of friends were present. Wreaths were sent by Mr Muspratt, the choir boys, and other sympathisers.

ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY MAGAZINES.

Messrs W. S. Partridge and Company send us some of their illustrated magazines for October, and to the juvenile mind they are of the greatest interest. They are marvellously cheap, being only one penny each, and this for an excellently turned out magazine. The Mother's Companion contains a serial story, "A Domestic Difficulty," by Evelyn Everett-Green. The Family Friend has a serial story, "True as Steel," by Jennie Chappell; and the British Workman contains such subjects as "Insulated Bob," by the Rev P B Power, M.A.; "A Fisherman's Heroism," "Make Your Own Path," by W. J. Lucy; and "Overcome Evil with Good," by Betha Farr. We have also received the Band of Hope Review, the Infants' Magazine, the Children's Friend, and the Friendly Visitor. All these are calculated to instruct as well as to amuse, and we should advise our young friends

THE PHENIX DRAMATIC

The members of the Phoenix gave very successful vocal entertainment on Thursday and Friday evenings, at the Phoenix Room, Tait's Factory. On each evening the room was well filled by an audience who appreciated the treat which the members of this talented club are capable of giving. The promoters of these and similar entertainments, which have been given by the club, deserve to be congratulated on the success of their efforts, and the future reunions in future will result in increased popularity. On each night the programme was varied and well arranged, it was carried out with Moore's pathetic ballad, "When I see thee," which opened the programme with much taste by Mr P. Myers, who tributed "Still thine own" in a handsome singing of a duet by Miss Cahill and Mr MacCormack, "Has sorrow thy voice been characterised by much pathos. "The Young May Moon," a quartet by Mr Waller, Myers, MacCormack, and Mr and Mrs Cahill, produced a very favourable impression on the audience, who were unstinted in their applause. Miss Cahill's performance was a great advantage in the song "Believe me when I say that I dreamt that I dwelt in a palace," which was very early effective. Miss Dynan sang "The Meeting of the Waters," which was less successful in her version of "Once." Mr Kelly was very successful in his recitation of "The Dream of the Riddler," and he was also very happy in a recitation of "The difficulty about that dog," which was much merriment. The rendering of "Wexford," by Mr W. Moran, produced much enthusiasm of the audience, who sang the chorus, and the comic song "As the old days come back to me" was given by him in good style. A place amongst the favourite renderings of the song "Waiting for the Day," and a parody on "Queen of the Mountains," by Mr G. Taylor sang "Home to the warrior dead," in an admirable manner, for which they were heartily applauded. It is needless to say that the encores were frequent, and were willingly given by Mr G. Taylor presided at the piano with the utmost efficiency, and mentioned that Mr J. Reardon gave the management as manager.
