

thinks, that one of 1886 has been to be retained at change as this be quite possible that may be made in sequently no one will be like. "It is Redmond, "that to say that Ireland ried scheme, in the no part, which she sed, and which she all was informed in eected as it stands." Unionists have been s the wit of man to that will please all they following. He will be acceptable to which will go but a tify Mr Redmond lon't like it they can an has done his duty st of his years to the J. Redmond protests be acceptable unless eland, and he adds, om all share in the on under which she intelligence, and is a solutely nothing to nond stands by Mr ramme, the control nd the land, the Im- ly on the advice of n up," concludes Mr n is briefly this. We eal of the Union— We are not asking 's Parliament. We tory Parliament with it, leaving untouched ial Parliament, save tary compact; that to leave the unprens irts in the hands of the subjects which touch stain other subjects ions liberty may be elature; but full and uestions not so reser- legislature amongst the questions of the is land."

hlanders' Black Watch, l proceed on Saturday join the service batta- will embark in the In- which takes out a various regiments in ed to intimate that the la-s at the Protestant , 97 George street, will evening next at 8 r of very large attend-

The adoption of the report having been proposed by Mr A. J. Eakins, seconded by Mr J. Harris, the chairman then put it to the meeting, when it was passed unanimously.

The election of officers was then proceeded with—Mr E. G. Fitt being re-elected President; Mr A. B. Hamilton, Vice-President; Mr W. F. Pike, Hon Sec; and Mr G. Ball, Assistant Hon Sec.

The following members of Committee were also elected—Messrs Boyanizer, Collopy, J. C. Palmer, A. Pike, Dewar, S. Jordan, and J. Palmer.

The first practice of the class commences on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, and we look forward to seeing during the session some excellent performances such as have already been given by the class.

MARRIAGE OF LORD MONTEAGLE'S NIECE.

At St Stephen's Church, Gloucester road, London, yesterday, Mr H C M Lambert, of the Colonial Office, was married to Miss Aileen Mary Arthur, eldest daughter of Mr and the Hon Mrs John Rayner Arthur, and niece of Baron Monteaule. The service was conducted by the Rev Canon Chapman, of Carlisle, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Hon and Rev E Carr Glyn, M A, vicar of Kensington. The bride's father gave her away. Mr E Lambert, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. There were four bridesmaids—Misses Arthur (sisters of the bride), and Miss Lambert and Miss A Blakesley, who wore gowns of pink bengaline trimmed with brown velvet, and hats to match. After the reception at 11 Queen's Gate place, the newly married couple left for Wales and Ireland.

THE REPRESENTATION OF EAST CLARE.

It is rumoured that Mr J. R. Cox does not intend proceeding with his petition against the return of Mr William Redmond, M.P. for East Clare, but at the same time he has served notice on Mr Redmond to have the election costs taxed before Judge Kelly at the October Quarter Sessions. The expenses of the candidates are put down at a total of £512.

SUPPOSED CASE OF DROWNING.

This morning Charles Corleton, night watchman, reported to the police at William street that a man had been drowned in the quay at Wellesley Bridge this morning. Corleton reported that about half-past one o'clock he heard a splash in the water at the Arthur's Quay side, and heard a faint scream. On going to learn what had occurred, he saw a man, whom he could not identify, in the water. Procuring a life buoy, he threw it to the drowning man, who, however, made no attempt to seize it, and he soon afterwards sank. Subsequently, a search was made for the body, but no trace of it could be found. This evening a Mrs Ahern, reported to the police that her husband had been missing since last night, when he left the house presumably for the purpose of attending a ball. The watchman was unable to give an accurate description of the man whom he states he saw drowning, but the disappearance of Ahern gives ground for the belief that he was the victim.

ALLEGED CHILD DESERTION.

Last night a young woman giving the name of Alice Ryan, alias Alice St John, alias Alice Tulbert, was arrested by Constable McNamara, John-street, on the charge of child desertion. The arrest was made by the Constable on a description given in the Hue and Cry of a woman who was wanted for having at Clonmel deserted a

The first witness examined in support of the application was Mr B. H. Poe Hosford, agent to Colonel Sampson, Receiver under the Court of Chancery for the bakery. He stated—I recollect last evening (7th) being driving from my office to the Croom Mills Bakery in Carr-street; I was accompanied by three men whom I engaged to act as bakers in the Croom Mills Bakery—Grimes and two M'Carthys; when I arrived at the bakery I saw a large crowd assembled; their conduct was very violent, and they made a rush for the car on which I was; amongst them I knew John Godsell, who ran and caught by the coat one of the bakers I had engaged, and dragged him into the crowd, saying, "I want to have a talk with you;" I said you have no right; "I have," said he in reply, "every right to ask him questions and I will do it;" the crowd then become very noisy and violent, and the police rushed up and got between them; and Godsell said to the man I had, "Are you aware you are going in on our strike?" by that time I had the man around by the bakery door, and then I saw the other two bakers with a crowd of the mob and some of the staff of the bakery, including Captain Sampson, who were trying to pull in the two men; the mob were endeavouring to keep them out, and commenced shouting and yelling; only that the police then rushed up there would be bad work.

Mr Connolly—From the character of the conduct that went on was it calculated to cause fear and terror?

Witness—Oh, indeed, it was.
Mr Connolly—Was it for the purpose of assisting to carry on the trade of the Croom Mills Bakery that these bakers were brought?

Witness—Certainly.
Mr Connolly—In your opinion, was the conduct of the crowd such as to seriously injure the carrying on of the business?

Witness—Most undoubtedly.
Mr Connolly—In your judgment was the attack a concerted, joint and general attack?

Witness said he believed it was, and in answer to further questions, stated he believed it was a conspiracy to injure the business, and John Godsell was the leader of the whole mob from first to last; what I saw was calculated to intimidate the employes of the Croom Mills from going to work; if the place is not protected I do not think any man would stay there.

Constable Benjamin Beardon, John street, was then examined and stated—I was on duty at the Croom Mills Bakery with Constable Patrick Bielly last evening, and at about 7 o'clock Mr Hosford brought three bakers named Michael M'Carthy, John M'Carthy, and Grimes, to the bakery to work instead of men on strike; on their arrival a man named Dwyer, a shoemaker from the Englishtown, asked one of the bakers did he know he was going in on a strike; I told him hold his tongue; we escorted the three bakers towards the door, and as we did so the bakers who formed the crowd—about fifteen of them—shouted in a violent way, "Do you know you are going in on a strike?"; at the same time a man named John Godsell, a baker, caught hold of the man I was escorting, and used all his strength to take him from me but I got him in; when they were in I heard Godsell say to a few children outside the door, "Go away, we are only doing our duty"; I then heard a man named John O'Brien, a baker, who was in the crowd say "It is well ye (the police) were here." The names of the bakers I saw in the crowd were John Prendergast, Patrick Sexton, Thomas Cusack, J. Horgan, J. Graham, Patrick Parker, Patrick Maher, James Prendergast, Edward Keane, Thomas Graham, Thomas Collins, John Carmody, Edward Dwyer, James Ryan, and John O'Brien; the conduct of the crowd on the occasion was of a violent and threatening character; those men I have mentioned formed part of the crowd whose conduct was as I have