THE LATE DEOWNING ACCIDENT AT O'BRIEN'S BRIDGE.

TO THE PEOPLE OF CLARE, TIPPERARY, AND LIMERICK.

FELLOW-COUNTRYMEN,

N consequence of the recent sad drawning A consequence of the recent sad drowning accident at O'Brien's Bridge Regatta, we, the undersigned having formed ourselves into a Relief Committee on behalf of the bereaved widows and orphans, appeal to you, and in doing so beg to place before you the circumstances which compel us to trespass on the generosity of the Irich heart.

One of these men left a young wife and three helpless little ones; the other an aged nother (who is almost blind)—with no prospect for the future but the grim wards of the Workhouse wherein to said, and perhaps end, their lives. How sad to think that that day, which they ex-How sad to think that that day, which bady expected to be a day of recreation and pleasure—perhaps victory and joy—should turn out to be a day of doom for them; snatched away in their without a moment's warning in young manhood without a moment's warning, in the presence of hundreds of awe-stricken people unable to save them from a watery grave. Yet sadder still to remember that from two numble homes in this city all hope and sunshine was at that moment driven dut. Is it ever to return? Oh! fellow-countrymen and fellow-citizens, with you rests the answer. You can by your timely generosity break down the barrier of grief and admit some small ray of light to those darkened hearts and homes.

You were well represented at the scene of the disaster, and you could not stretch forth your hand to save poor McElligott from a watery grave.
