long distances at enormous expense to dispose of their horses. To enable horse buyers to attend from all parts, the West Clare Railway ran special trains to Kilrush on Sunday, the Lower Shannon Steamship Company running a steamer from Limerick and Foynes to this town. The supply of all descriptions of horses was very large, there being considerably over 1,000 exhibited, most of them suitable for cavalry purposes. The leading buyers stated they never saw a new horse fair better patronised, nor a town, owing to its wide streets, better suited for a horse fair than Kilrush.
The buyers in attendance were from Dublin, Waterford, Cork, Limerick, Belfast, and other large centres, as well as local men. Owing to the near approach of some old established fairs in other places the sellers were considered rather stiff in their demands, and this coupled with the fact of the great drought in England and other countries, accounted for the fact that the number of sales effected was not as large as would otherwise have been the case. It was also known that a "lull" prevails with foreign governments for cavalry horses, but still a great many sales were effected at £70, and some nice lots from £35 to £50, and £60. The Town Commissioners have made excellent arrangements for the fair, whilst the buyers were afforded the utmost facility by the townspeople, as well as moderate charges at the hotels and other establishments. There was some splendid jumping at the fair grounds. The Town Commissioners deserve the utmost praise for the success of the first horse fair here.
