MIOBE AND JANE AT THEATRE ROYAL Messrs. Wallace Erskine and Charles Macdonna's Celebrated Comedy Company will appear at the above on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday next with these two of the greatest and most recent London successes. Niche, which has completed its 550th night at the Strand Theatre, London, is one of the very best farciand consectise the stage has seep in recent years. The plot, which somewhat reminds us of Pygnadon, and Gatates, though incompanily more humorous, is a bold idea, and wonderfully, carried out. The dialogue sparkles at every point, and front he time of the uncalled-for coming to life of the status till the final full of the curtain, laughter-follows every movement. Jane is one of these uproaviously funny pieces that makes everyone who sees it feel ten years younger for the nonce. Witty and pretty, the servant—who is for once made mistress—gets her master out of difficulties in such a mirth-provoking manner that when the curtain falls one feels that another act of such laughter would be unbearable. Mesers Erskine and Macdonna are bringing an exceptionally good company, who have appeared in all the principal cities and towns of Great Britain, in-cluding Dullin, Belfast, and Cork, and welvould advise those who wish to enjoy a thoroughly seed avenue when the curtain feel to the principal cities and towns of Great Britain, in-

TERRIBLE FATAL ACCIDENT IN THE CITY.

This afternoon an accident of a most painful character occurred in the city, resulting in the death of a man named Michael Murphy. The death of a man named Michael Murphy. The deceased was employed as a labourer at the rebuilding of Messrs Boyds' premises, Williamstreet, and was occupied in some work on the third scaffolding, when he missed his footing and fell to the ground, a distance of about thirty feet. His head-came in contact with some large stones which were underneath, and his skull was split. Medical aid was at once summoned, and Drs Fogerty and Russell were promptly in attendance, but it was found that medical assistance was powerless to give any relief, and the poor follow succumbed to his injuries shortly atterwards, while being conveyed to Barrington's Hospital. The deceased resided off Queen-atreet, was about 32 years of age, and had been married about twelve months. An inquest was leld this evening by the City Corone, Mr DeCourcy, and a verdict of death from accident was returned.

In his early years is well knew his late Eminence Gardinal Nowman, and with the late Eminence Gardinal Nowman, and with the late Eminence Gardinal Nowman, and the DeVerors, was an ardent follower of his in the Oxford movement. Lord Emly join of the Roman Catholic Church in the forties, and since then, and up to the time of his death, was a most steadfast member of it. It may be remarked that he presented St John's R C Cathedral, when it was founded, with a beautiful marble Madonna by the celebrated artist, Benzoni. Monsignor Fersico, the special curvoy the Pops sent to Iroland some years ago, was the guest of ford Emly at Terroe. The deceased nobleman maintained a very close relationship with the leading Roman Catholic nobles in England, being on antimute terms with the Duke of Norfolk, and was well known in London Society up to twenty years ago. He was a man of very bigh lilerary tastes, wrote a good deal on educational subjects and statistical affairs, and seconomical questions in connection with Ireland. In years gone by he frequently presided at large gatherings of one kind or other in this city, and a very important lecture or "Intermediate Education." Its Source and Origin, which he delivered in the Athenmen will be within the recollection of many. He also some years ago. Lord Emly was for very many years Chairman of the Limerick Board of Guardians, and conducted the business with dignity and a uniformly courteous manner, which won for him the tospect of all. It is, however, fully ten years ago alore he retired from that position, and in fact, from the Board altogether. He was Vice Chancellee of the Royal University of Ireland, and a very old Director of the National Bank. Was also Honorary Colonel of the 5th Battalion Royal Munter Fusitiers, to which he was gasotted the 26th July, 1864. He succeeded the late found the late there and a City in the year 1871. For everal years back ford Emly has lived, it might be said, in retirement, and is in the spring of last year, and o

At a meeting of the Rural Sanitary Board today, Mr John M Inerney, referring to the death of Lord Emly, who was a momber of that board, of Lord Emly, who was a momber of that board, said it was usual usides such circumstances to adjourn the bininess. Although he and Lord Emly had often to fight their concers at that board, that was no reason why he should not stand up and propose the adjournment of the meeting. He, therefore, proposed that they now adjourn as a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Lord Euly.

Mr William Fitzgerald bogged to second the proposition, and the board adjourned accordingly.

R.M. aluded in sympathene terms to the cearn of Loed Empt, Lioutenant of the County, and as a mark of respect to his memory he would adjourn the court after the custody cases were disposed of. He was sure that the people generally showed the regret which he hunself telt at the death of such a distinguished member of the community.

R M, in the chair; H de L Willis and J W Scott. The Board of Trade inquiry concluded at Bristol to-day regarding the collision between the steamer Yesso and the schooner Lizzie Wilee, off Iffracombe, which resulted in the loss of the schooner and three lives. The court attached blame to Wilkinson, the Yesso's second officer, and suppended his certificate for three months. They condemned the conduct of the Yesso's port best as cowardly in the market as a decrease. Pat Bourke, for striking Bridget Bourke with a stone on the same occasion.

From the evidence it appeared that Drumliffe is infested by bands of those tinkers, who are the cause of continuous annoyance to the inhabitants of the locality. Their frequent quarrels between themselves, from family and "professional" causes, have led to repeated appearances in court. The Bourke's worn now committed to lituerick Gaol for one month. Casey was ordered to find bail, himself in 50s, and two auresies in 25s, for his future good behaviour, or in dafault he was ordered to be imprisoned in Limerick Gaol for a month.
