

the War Office to permanently deprive us the dashing cavalry man. He has always been a conspicuous and a most popular figure on our midst. The officers have very largely, indeed, contributed towards the success of social life, whether in the hunting field, the recreance, or in the promotion of local amusements, where the cavalry drill and the musical de force such a highly attractive and indeed indispensable feature. Therefore, the removal of the Hussars from this city would mean not alone a social but a great monetary loss, and we can only hope such a contingency is not likely to occur. However, seeing that the Corporation have been successful in retaining the Royal Irish in Limerick, it would be well that they should take action before it may be, perhaps, too late, with a view to representing to the authorities the unanimous desire of the community that Limerick should be continued as a cavalry station, and the injustice which would be done us if the contrary should be put in practice.

Lighting, a journal devoted to Electricity, "wires" into the Limerick Corporation—a not inappropriate phrase having regard to the nature of the subject—for indefinitely postponing the scheme which has been so long under their consideration. "The Corporation," it says, "appears to be modelling its method of progression in electric lighting matters upon the famous example of Paddy Pig. After going to the expense of obtaining a Provisional Order, and of obtaining reports on a scheme from Professor Kennedy, the Corporation is now inclined to drop the whole business, upon the absurdly inadequate ground that its powers do not enable it to forbid residents from putting down private installations on their own premises. It seems that the Corporation has from the beginning laboured under the curious delusion that the Provisional Order gave it an absolute monopoly of generating current within the borough." And further on our contemporary quotes the pronouncement of the Board of Trade that they "were unaware of any Act of Parliament prohibiting private firms from supplying electric light to their own premises or the premises of their neighbours without first having obtained newspaper, of which, and others, of which, Fergus, Acting-sergeants; and Acting-sergeant O'Sullivan, Killaloe, to be Sergeant.

S. MICHAEL'S CHURCH—The list of subscribers to the Painting and Decoration Fund for S. Church will be found in our advertisement columns. As will be seen a large amount has been subscribed, but much more is necessary to complete the contemplated improvements. As already announced, the services will be held tomorrow, and until further notice, in the Orphan Hall.

POLICE COURT—Alderman Hall presided at the Police Court this morning. A man named Patrick Hayes, who had been before the magistrates on the previous day on the charge of assaulting the police, the case being adjourned as the Bench were equally divided on the question of sentence, was charged by Constable Fraser, Mary Street, with drunkenness last night. His worship imposed a fine of 5s. The defendant brought a summons against the police at the Petty Sessions yesterday for assault, and the case was adjourned.

FEAST OF ST MICHAEL—In connection with the celebration of the feast of St Michael on Tuesday next at St Michael's R C Church, a remarkable and interesting feature will be the music of the High Mass, which has been specially composed for the occasion by the organist, Mr Augustine Fitzgerald, under whose baton it will be rendered by a numerous and most efficient choir. Those who have heard the work rendered pay the highest compliment to Mr Fitzgerald's talent and grasp of detail, and such a painstaking and most successful task as this undoubtedly is, reflects on him the highest credit.

DEATH OF MRS. HUGH COYLE—We regret to announce the death of Mrs Mary Coyle, wife of Mr Hugh Coyle, grocer and tea merchant, George Street, which took place at her residence yesterday morning after a brief illness. Mrs Coyle, a young Limerick lady, possessed many attainments which endeared her to a very large circle of friends, and her demise at the age of 25 years leaves a blank in the family circle, which needs no words to emphasize. The utmost sympathy is expressed with our respected fellow-citizen, Mr Coyle, in his great sorrow. Funeral takes place at one o'clock to-morrow for St Laurence Cemetery.

ST MARY'S CATHEDRAL—Seventeenth Sunday after Trinity—Morning Prayer, 11.30; Venite, Webbe in G; Chants, Goss and Macfarren; Service, Te Deum and Jubilate, Barnby in E; Hymn, No 356, "Hark! Hark! my soul"; Communion Service, Hatton and Barnby; Preacher, The Archdeacon; Evening Prayer, 8.30; Chants, Camidge in F and Purcell in F mi; Service, Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, Barnby in E; Anthem, "Praise the Lord, O my soul," Ps. cxlvi, Sir John Goss; Preacher, The Precentor; Hymn after Sermon, No 439, "Why those fears? behold 'tis Jesus!" Weekday Services at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m.; Litany on Wednesday and Friday; Tuesday, 20th, Feast of S. Michael and All Angels.

was most attractive. Madigan," and Miss Malone," were well Colleen Bawn was pro again a large audier interesting character, portrayed by Mr J left little to be desi Oregan," exhibited a role. Mr J Healy, as Shanahan as "Father and Mr M Fitz "Danny Man" pla as "Mr Corigan," t good, and Mr Gab a magistrate, fill becoming dignity. "Colleen Bawn," order, and her acti the role of "Mrs C Rea in the absence c unable to arrive in t trayed in the most. Glenville as "Sheela as the "Colleen Rua The other parts altogether the perfo

THEA

It will be seen by quite a round of mo Theatre Royal dur have just entered. Mr Garland's Com "The late Mr Cast Lingard Comic Op during the race we menoes on October crowded houses wi the sparkling work corps de opera. The produced for porti Mr Abud's No. 1 C saying that this crowded houses. will commence an "Fanny," "Caste season will be th O'Brien," a roma Joseph O'Mara in distinct a success. will, therefore, mal interest. Miss "Playing the Ga and "The Privat that it will be see catered for during!

FOOTBALL AND A

AMNESTY

In connection place on to-morro leave Limerick at at 11.15 and Clo train from Limeri arriving there at p.m; Tipperary, Cheap fares.