substitutes for Advertiseen on days of publication. I in not later than Five Wednesday, and Friday ers and leiters of credit able, and communications dressed to THE MANAGER BONIGES.

will be attended to unless that of the writer, as a rey, but not necessary for mot undertake to return ions.

secure insertion should be ore Twelve o'clock on Tuesind Eaturdays. Where no by opened, small advertiseid

CK CHRONICLE

LISHED 1766.

ENING, APRIL 1, 1897

ch the speaking was of an ler, probably the foremost ned to Mr Lecky. He has y foremest rank of Parliawithin the range of two the present session alone. , University Question, detime ago, was of marked cess has been followed up the claims of his country to ion last night, and judging o-day, he has delivered an ment. He vindicated the tinguished men who formed the proved that whilst the ! Ireland is only one-twen-Britain, she was taxed onerelfth. References having a sides to the Act of Union, a pas age from Lord Castleproposing the Union which ention beyond the possibility ing in favour of the Bill Union, and expounding its lereach, stating the advan-

THE LATE MR ZACHARY MYLES, J. P.—In our report of the attendance at the funeral of the late Mr Zachary Myles, J. P., we omitted the names of the Archdeacon of Limerick, and Mr S. F. Dowling, J. P., Temple Mungret, who also sent his carriage.

An Early Swallow.—The present extremely sharp weather is not such as to invite the presence from abroad of those harbingers of Spring—those pretty, rather friendly birds which "dip their wings, and skim away." Yet a common swallow was seen yesterday by Sir Charles Barrington in his picturesque grounds at Glenstal. The sand martin which is the earliest to favor the country with a visit comes about the 10th, and the other spacies, generally speaking, do not put in appearance before the 15th or 16th of April at the very earliest. Perhaps its unusually early arrival this year is an indication that genial weather will immediately set in. We hope so.

DEATH OF MR MICHAEL O'CONNOR.

Very general regret will be felt amongst his numerous friends and acquaintances, and more especially in football circles, at the announcement of the death of Mr Michael O'Connor, Athlunkard-st. The deceased was for many years a prominent member of the Garryowen Football Club, and amongst its members and supporters, as well as the outside public who had the pleasure of his acquaintance, he was most popular. His quiet, unassuming disposition, and his manly qualities, gained for him universal esteem. Some short time ago his health became undermined, and the sad news of his death at an early age is a matter for the sincerest regret.

ALLEGED LARCENY.

This morning a woman named Johanna Fogerty, carrying on business as an umbrella repairer in Nelson-street, was arrested by Sergt Quin, William-street, on the charge of being concerned in the larceny of a purse containing £11 10s, the property of a woman named Bridget Guina, who since the alleged occurrence has died. It appears that Mrs Guina, being ill, was visited by a number of neighbours, including the accused, and during one of these visits the purse containing the money was missed. Information was given to the police, and in the meantime Mrs Guina died. Inquiries into the case were made by Sergeant Quin, who, from circumstances which came to his knowledge, searched Fogerty's house on a warrant, with the result that a purse which has been identified as having been the property of the deceased, was found in her house. The accused was brought before Mr John Guinane, J.P., this afternoon and remanded to Petty Sessions.

DEATH OF THE ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN.

We deeply regret to announce the death of his Grace, the Archbishop of Dublin, which took place this morning about half-past six o'clock. The alarming reports which appeared in the morning papers rather prepared the public for the sad tidings, but still to the last there was hope. His Grace was in his 69th year.

(BY TELEGRAPH FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)
Dublin, Thursday Evening.

Archbishop Planket died from an abscess on the liver. It is believed that the funeral will take place next Tuesday morning, leaving the Green, at half-past palace Stephen's nine o'clock, and proceeding thence to Cathedral. This afternoon St Patrike's following telegram was received at the the Palace from Mr Daly, Secretary of the Commission on Manual Instruction - Resolved-Proposed by His Grace the Most Rev Dr Walsh, and seconded by Professor Fitzgerald, That the Commission on Manual and Practical Instruction, at present sitting in Liverpool, have heard with deep regret of the death of their valued colleague, Lord Plunket, Archbishop of Dublin, and desire to express their sense of the loss they have sustained thereby, and their sy mpathy with his family in their bereavem ent.

The Archbishop was the eldest son of John, 3rd Baron Plunket, his mother being the daughter of the Right Hon. Charles Kendal Bush, CJ, KB His Grace was born August 26th, 1828. He was educated at an English school and subsequently entered Trinity College, from which he gradiented B A in 1853. He took his M A degree in 1864, and the B D and D D degrees in 1876. He was honoured by Cambridge University with the LL D degree in 1888. Wil-liam Conyngham Planket was ordained by his uncle Thomas, 2nd Ba on Plunket, Lord Bishop of Tuam, in 1857, and was appointed by him Domestic Chaplain and Private Secretary in the following year. He was appointed to the Treasurership and Precentorship of St Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin in 1864 and 1869, respectively. The latter appointment he held during the trying times of Disestablishment and Disendowment, and he was one of the most energetic counsellors in the new organization of the Church of Ireland. In 1876 Lord Plunket, who had succeeded his father in the title five years before, was chosen by the Synod of Meath, on the death of Dr Butcher, as Bishop of that Diocese. He re ceived 74 clerical votes out of a total of 79, and 90 lay votes out of 116. Dr Daunt, Dean of Cork was his only formidable rival on the occasion He was consecrated in Armagh Cathedral or