ALLEGED ATTEMPTED MURDER OF A SISTER.
Watford to-day, Mary Ann Ansell, 22, domestic servant, was further charged with the murder of her sister Caroline, an inmate of the Asylum, by sending her poisoned cake by the post. The accused appeared in court to-day. Mr Longmore, who prosecuted for the murder, opened the case by dealing with the evidence of the case in chronological order, after Nurse Felmingham described the receipt of the cake, tea, and sugar, and later of cake, which contained a jam sandwich. The accused declared her innocence, the case adjourned until Saturday.

cause the Germans to pour, and which is opposed by King Tanu, whom the American Chief Justice Chambers has declared to be the lawful king. A combined British and American landing party a few days ago defeated Mafuaans, inflicting a loss of 27 killed. On April 1st, another combined force, under Lieutenant Freeman, of H. M. S. Tauranga, advanced against the enemy, but fell into an ambush and was forced to retire, Lieutenant Freeman and two leading seamen of H. M. S. Royalist being killed and five others wounded. The American officers killed were Lieutenant Lansdale and ensign John Monaghan, and one of the seamen, Coxswain James Butler, of the cruiser Philadelphia, a native of Dungarvan, County Waterford. Besides the loss in men, two of their light guns were captured by the enemy. The ambush is said to have been laid in a German fortification, the owner of which has been arrested and taken on board the Tauranga. H. M. gunboat Goldfinch and cruiser Wallaroo have been ordered from Sydney to Samoa, where there are already three British, one American, and three German warships.
